

JUNIATA

Summer 1988

college bulletin

Economics and Business Students
Excel At Juniata

With this issue of the COLLEGE BULLETIN we begin a series of articles featuring the academic departments which form the heart of the College. In future editorial issues of the magazine you will read of the recent happenings in International Studies, Peace and Conflict Studies, Education, the Sciences, and Social Work to name only a few. In this issue we examine the department of Economics and Business Administration.

We take this step for several very important reasons. You have indicated to us on many occasions that you would like to know what is going on in the department from which you graduated. Is the faculty still strong and dedicated? Are the students doing innovative things on their way to successful lives and careers? These articles will seek to answer your questions.

We feel strongly that our faculty deserve to be recognized for the work they do in educating our students. Our hope is that through these articles you will come to know the faculty better. We want you to get to know those faculty members who you may not have come in contact with during your career at Juniata. Finally, we want you to realize that Juniata College has strengths beyond the areas of concentration that you may have been involved in at the College.

The final reason involves all Juniataians — past, present, and future. We have found that students interested in attending a college will weigh heavily that particular college's academic reputation when making their final decision. We feel that it is time to accentuate the excellence that exists throughout our academic program and we need your help in getting the word out. We hope that with the knowledge gained through our examination of Juniata's academic departments, we will develop a broad base of support for our recruitment efforts. As Board Chairman Charles C. Ellis noted in our recent interview, "Juniata is developing a reputation based on one thing, the accomplishment of the graduates." As chairman Ellis noted, that truly is the proof in the pudding.

As always, we welcome your comments and/or suggestions.

Tracey L. DeBlase
College Bulletin Editor

JUNIATA

college bulletin

Summer 1988
Vol. LXXXV No. 1

Assistant Director of College
Communications,
Editor

Tracey L. DeBlase '85

Director of College Communications
David A. Gildea

Assistant Director of College
Communications
Joseph M. Scialabba '86

Director of Alumni and Church
Relations
Dorothy L. Hershberger '50

TABLE OF CONTENTS

FEATURES .....	2-7
AROUND AND BEYOND CAMPUS .....	8-15
"WEEKENDS AT JUNIATA" .....	16-23
SPORTS .....	24-27
CLASS NOTES .....	28-32
1988 FALL SPORTS SCHEDULE .....	Back Cover

Juniata College is an independent, privately supported coeducational institution committed to providing a liberal arts education to qualified students regardless of sex, race, religion, creed, color or handicap. Its policies comply with requirements of Title VIII of the Civil Rights Act of 1964, Title IX of the Education Amendments of 1972, and all other applicable federal, state and local statutes, regulations and guidelines.

On the cover: Brian King '90, an intern at Lake Raystown Resort, is taking advantage of the Juniata internship program this summer and gaining valuable real life experience as the manager of the water park.

FEATURES

Rigorous Academic Preparation

+

Real Life Experience

=

Success in Business

"What I'm doing is for real," exclaimed Susan Lockawich '89, with a twinkle in her eye and grin on her face, as she sat in the conference room of the Owens-Corning Fiberglas plant in Huntingdon.

Ms. Lockawich, a management/computer information systems student at Juniata, is getting "real experience" this summer as an intern in the business department at the Owens-Corning Fiberglas plant.

This eye opening experience begins every morning for her at 5:45 a.m. when the alarm sounds in her room. "I get up at 5:45, leave my house in Williamsburg by 7:25 and travel 25 minutes to work. We start at 8 a.m. and go to 4:30 with an hour off for lunch," Ms. Lockawich explained.

"It's much different from the academic environment, but everything I have learned in the classroom has really helped me with this internship," she added. "I'm currently working on a Conductive Roving data collection project, later in the month I'll be starting a project which will require several meetings with supervisors in the fabrication department to develop an overtime system."

As the job market becomes increasingly more competitive, academic preparation and "real life" experience becomes increasingly more important to college students. According to William Duey, assistant director of internships and the Business Outreach program, the "hands on" experience from an internship can be very valuable for a student soon to enter the competitive market.

"An internship provides practical experience which helps to supplement the classroom experience. They go from the classroom to the workplace and put what they've learned in the classroom into practice," Mr. Duey said.

Mr. Duey believes that not only does an internship help Juniata students develop, but it reinforces the fact that Juniata does an excellent job at preparing its students.

"When a student does well in an internship program, it enhances the College's reputation with that company," said Mr. Duey.

Susan Lockawich '89 takes time out from her internship at Owens-Corning Fiberglas for a photograph with Michael Busser '78, controller, and George Getic, management information system supervisor.

George Getic, management information system supervisor at Owens-Corning Fiberglas, praised the performance of Lockawich, "Susan is doing an excellent job, I don't have to do much supervising with her. She has some tough assignments but has been very capable of handling them." Mr. Getic hopes to continue the internship program with Juniata. "While Susan interfaces with the MIS department and gets some experience, she helps us in a big way with some special projects," he added.

Michael Busser '78, controller for Owens-Corning Fiberglas said, "We're delighted to be able to use the College's resources. In 1979 the internship program with Owens-Corning ceased, but this year it's back and we're very happy about that. We've recently hired Ron Cherry (Charles A. Dana supported professor of economics) as a consultant and hope to build and promote a lasting relationship with Juniata."

Mr. Busser, a 1978 graduate of Juniata College, was an intern with Owens-Corning during his senior year at Juniata. Following graduation he was hired by the company, earned his master's degree and is celebrating his tenth year with the company this summer.

According to Mr. Duey, business students are employed this summer with BGS&G Company (Cumberland, Md.), Marine National Bank (Ocean City, N.J.), Mead Corporation (Huntingdon, Pa.), Owens-Corning Fiberglas (Huntingdon, Pa.), Cosmopolitan Lifestyle Fitness Center (Johnstown, Pa.), Book-of-the-Month Club (Camp Hill, Pa.), AMP (Harrisburg, Pa.), J.C. Penney (Harrisburg, Pa.), Vector Marketing (York, Pa.), Lake Raystown Resort (Huntingdon, Pa.), and a Blair County CPA firm (Hollidaysburg, Pa.).

Brian King, pictured on the cover, is supervising 35 employees this summer at the Raystown Resort Water Park.

Mr. King, a management major at Juniata is delighted by his opportunity to get this kind of experience. "This is really a terrific opportunity for me, not only am I learning a lot, but I'm also having fun," he said.

Mark Sloan, ready to start his senior year at Juniata, began his college career at Penn State. Realizing that he wanted more personal contact and individualized attention from the faculty, he transferred to Juniata in 1986. This summer he is working as an intern with Mead Corporation. "The experience that I'm getting here is really great. I'm sure it's going to help me in the future.

"I've really been able to use the skills that I've learned at Juniata. The Behavioral Analysis of Organizations course has been very helpful because I'm dealing with a lot of management/union situations," Mr. Sloan added.

Dr. James Lakso, chairman of the economic and business administration department, explained that the department's fundamental goal is to develop a set of skills in business students that they can use in the corporate world. "We have structured the curriculum in such a way that in every course in the department there is some specific set of skills being stressed. For example, we have courses that specifically work on communication skills, even though that may not be the content of the course. We structure the teaching in such a way that while you learn content, you also develop communication skills, conceptual skills, human interaction skills and technical skills."

Forty-six courses are offered in the economics and business administration department. Students may have a concentration in public or corporate accounting, economics, general management, finance, marketing, personnel, production or management information systems.

According to Dr. Lakso, most graduates who have a program of emphasis in business remember the Behavior Analysis of Organization course that Mr. Sloan mentioned, because of its uniqueness. The focus of the course is to develop self awareness and interaction with others.

The skill building, uniqueness of the courses, dedicated faculty and internship program all play a significant role in the final product — the performance of JC students in the business world. This spring the business department had the opportunity to see how their business students compared to other students studying at private liberal arts colleges. In their initial national case study competition, Juniata students captured first place (see separate story p. 4).

The experienced and dedicated faculty at Juniata plays a key roll in the academic preparation and outstanding performance of the students (see page 5). In the ever changing world of business, it is imperative that faculty continue to familiarize themselves with new techniques and philosophies.

According to Dr. Lakso, all the faculty members in the business department do field work and business consulting to continue to improve and develop their skills.

A combined effort by students and faculty enables the college to assist small businesses in the area through Juniata's Business Outreach Center. The Center provides experience to students and exercises the expertise of faculty. (see separate story p. 5)

The Role of Alumni

Alumni can play a very big role for students looking for internships. Dave Wagner, a 1985 graduate of Juniata is the industrial relations supervisor at Owens-Corning. He was instrumental in reinstating the internship program at the plant. Now Ms. Lockawich, the benefactor of Mr. Wagner's work, interacts directly with Juniata alumnus Michael Busser.

"Alumni can be very beneficial to our ongoing internship program. They can put us in touch with the right people in the personnel office. If companies are made aware of the quality people we can place in their departments for summer internships it will be a big boost for the program. Alumni represent to their companies the kind of quality education that Juniata provides," said Assistant Internship Director Bill Duey.

According to Dr. Lakso, alumni have also been helpful by returning to campus to speak to classes. The business department relies heavily on its younger alumni to provide feedback on the career preparation at Juniata and that "first job market experience."

Dr. Lakso and William Martin, director of career planning and placement, will make a trip this month to large companies throughout the east. They will interview personnel directors, to obtain information on what companies are looking for in job applicants. A new micro-computer lab will be in place by September to accommodate the swing in business from the large central computer system to the desktop personal computers. "We're always looking for ways to improve the program. Flexibility is the key. We want to continue the excellent quality education as well as the internship program in business," Dr. Lakso said.

Dr. Lakso and Mr. Duey both hope that the internship program continues to flourish. What could be better than for Juniata students to discover "that what they are doing is for real?"

Dr. James Lakso, chairman of the economics and business administration department, stresses the importance of developing skills in the classroom.

Juniata Faculty and Students Assist County Planners

When the Huntingdon County Business & Industry (HCB&I) board of directors received a grant from the state of Pennsylvania to study the potential for economic development in Huntingdon County, they came to Juniata's department of economics and business to conduct the study.

According to HCB&I executive director Michael Keating, Juniata was the obvious place to look for expert consultation. "Our experience with the Business Outreach Center at the college had been very positive," Mr. Keating said. "We felt very good about working with the faculty and students at the college."

What Juniata did for HCB&I was to provide a base of data upon which the economic future of the county could be built. "HCB&I was beginning to look at long range planning," according to Dr. Ronald Cherry, Charles A. Dana supported professor of economics. "Their goal was to create an economic picture of Huntingdon County into the 1990s, but they lacked the foundation of current economic information. This is what we provided."

Following months of data collection, Juniata faculty members (Dr. Cherry, Dr. James Lakso, and James Donaldson) and student interns of the business and economics department (Amy Lane and Joseph Newhart) presented a summary of their report to the board of directors of HCB&I.

"One of the clear indications is that HCB&I should broaden their traditional central thrust on industrial development and/or job creation and focus additionally on improving the tax base and raising the level of family income in the county," Dr. Cherry said. He further stated that the county's transportation and industrial heritage lends itself well to tourist attractions which could help in drawing people into the county.

The faculty group recommended that HCB&I consider the possibility of luring corporate or state "operation centers." These technological and/or labor skills centers, currently located in Washington, D.C., Baltimore, Md., and Harrisburg, Pa., could find Huntingdon County very attractive.

Members of the board of directors of HCB&I found the report to be very helpful in guiding the county into the future. "I like the document," said Long Range Planning Committee Chairman Larry O. Sather. "There is a lot of food for thought here."

Executive Director Keating made a point of extending accolades to the students involved in the project. "These two students got my highest recommendation," he said. "They did a fabulous job. Had HCB&I had the money, I would have hired them here. I felt that good about the work they did for us."

"As a matter of fact, Joe (Newhart) came back after the project was completed and set up the data on our computer system for us," Mr. Keating added. "He developed the programs that have allowed us to access any of the data from our systems. This has been a tremendous help."

In commenting on her part in the project, Amy Lane, who is currently a management trainee with Pennsylvania Manufacturers Association Group in Philadelphia, said, "Being a part of this project has been tremendously valuable to me. It gave me a broader view of what is actually happening out there. It brought life to the theories that we learn in the classroom and brought into focus those things that are really important to business and industry. This kind of experience, when combined with the opportunities presented through my POE (program of emphasis), has put me ahead of most of my counterparts."

As Huntingdon County moves into the future with confidence and hopefulness, Juniata College continues to be an important and positive influence.

Nothing But the Best for Juniata

A group of Juniata College business students made the most of an invitation to compete in the 1988 case study competition sponsored by The National Economics and Business Honorary, Tau Pi Phi. The Juniata contingent, which was expected by the hosts to give only an average performance in their first competition, made an auspicious debut, taking top honors in the event at Westminster College on April 8-9.

Seniors Roy Santa Croce of Morrisville, David Smith of Harrisburg and junior Todd Evans of Mount Laurel, N.J. teamed to take first place from a number of Ohio and Pennsylvania colleges, including Marietta, Capital and three-time defending champion, Wittenberg.

"Each team was given two case studies, one on Friday night and one on Saturday morning," said Dr. James Lakso, chairperson of the Juniata economics and business administration department. Dr. Lakso accompanied the students to the competition.

"The teams compiled a written executive summary and made a presentation to a panel of judges for each case," continued Dr. Lakso. "The judges were business people from the New Castle/Erie area, and did not know the schools they were judging."

The awards were based on combined scores and were announced at a closing banquet on Saturday evening.

"Our group did a real good job," said Dr. Lakso. "We're very proud of the outcome and hope to continue to compete in the future."

Outreach Center Benefits Faculty, Students and Economy

As most small business owners can attest, the first steps in establishing an entrepreneurial venture can be frightening, especially in light of statistics that indicate 80% of all small businesses will either change or go belly-up within the first five years of existence. Despite the nay sayers and harbingers of doom, entrepreneurial ventures, especially in small scale manufacturing and cottage industry type enterprises, are on the upswing in central Pennsylvania.

In an effort to assist these entrepreneurs through the initial steps of establishing a small business and later, through the various periods of growth and change, Juniata College has established the Juniata College Business Outreach Center.

The Center, which is operated out of the department of economics and business, evolved out of the now defunct Huntingdon incubator. Juniata's initial involvement in the program filled the need for experts to advise clients of the incubator on matters related to building a small business. In 1986, following the demise of the incubator and with support from the Ben Franklin Partnership Program, Household International, and Mellon Bank, the business department opted to continue to serve the needs of small businesses in Huntingdon and surrounding counties.

Now entering its third year of independent operation, the Business Outreach Center has assisted over 20 young businesses, according to Business Outreach Coordinator William E. Duey. "Juniata faculty members through the Outreach Center will assist entrepreneurs in marketing, business plans, financial requests, market studies, production and operation schedules, and accounting systems," according to Mr. Duey.

(Continued on p. 6)

Economics and Business Department Faculty

Dr. James J. Lakso (department chairperson), professor of economics and business administration, Ph.D., University of Maryland; M.A., University of Maryland; B.A., Wittenberg University.

Dr. Ronald L. Cherry, Charles A. Dana supported professor of economics, Ph.D., Princeton University; A.M., Princeton University; A.B., Juniata College; additional study at Princeton University and Harvard Business School.

Thomas J. Nolan, professor of economics, A.M., The Pennsylvania State University; A.B., King's College; additional study at The Pennsylvania State University.

Christopher H. Peterson, associate professor of economics and business administration, Ph.D. (in progress), Cornell University; M.B.A., Harvard University; B.S., Juniata College.

James R. Donaldson, associate professor of economics and business administration, M.B.A., Syracuse University; M.A., University of Akron; B.S., Juniata College. Professional experience: director of product planning and research, AP Parts Automotive Division, Questor Corporation of Toledo, Ohio; manager of marketing analysis and planning, AP Parts.

Edward F. Kaminsky, associate professor of economics and business administration, M.B.A., Wilkes College; B.S., King's College; C.P.A. in Pennsylvania. Professional experience: supervisor, Laventhol and Horwath Accounting; accountant, Touche Ross and Co., of Philadelphia.

William R. Alexander, assistant professor of economics, M.A., University of Minnesota; B.S., Juniata College. Professional experience: vice president for financial affairs, Juniata College; college business manager, Juniata; director of institutional research and planning, Juniata; director of institutional research, Juniata; assistant for institutional research, Juniata.

Patricia C. Weaver, assistant professor of economics and business administration, M.A., The Pennsylvania State University; B.A., The Pennsylvania State University, certified public accountant in Pennsylvania; additional study at The Pennsylvania State University. Professional experience: staff accountant in Tyrone office of Young, Oakes, Brown & Co.

Bill Duey (center) and Pat Weaver (right), from the Juniata economics and business administration department, discuss some paperwork with Jim Nichol at the Nichol Manufacturing facility in Hartslog Valley.

In addition to serving the actual clients of the Center, added benefits are realized by Juniata's economics and business faculty and students. According to James Donaldson, associate professor of economics and business administration and active adviser to the Center's clients, "working with the Business Outreach Center keeps us fresh. It provides us with added perspective in that we have the opportunity to get our heads out of what tends to be viewed as an ivory tower. Through our work with the Center," Professor Donaldson added, "we can bring a certain tangibility to the theory which often will dominate the traditional business program."

More importantly, according to Professor Donaldson, the Center provides good, hard, and practical case studies with which Juniata students can work. "Students will often take on certain portions of our clients' needs as a class project," he indicated. Under faculty guidance Juniata students have been involved in drafting business plans, designing accounting methods, and designing comprehensive marketing studies for Center clients in conjunction with their regularly scheduled classes.

One of the many success stories of the Center is Nichol Manufacturing of Hartslog Valley. According to entrepreneurs Jim and Dorothy Nichol, the Business Outreach Center has been there whenever they have needed assistance. "Dr. Cherry, Dr. Lakso, and Chris Peterson have been with us from the initial design of our business plan," Jim Nichol said. "They have worked with us on nearly every step of our manufacturing operation and we are very thankful for their help." Nichol Manufacturing was presented with the 1988 Small Business Award by the Huntingdon County Business and Industry organization at their annual banquet in January. The excitement generated by the award was shared with the Juniata faculty members who make up the Business Outreach Center and the students who assisted in making Nichol Manufacturing the success story that it is today.

Economics Graduate Recognized for Service

The success of alumni from Juniata's economics and business department is well documented with loyal Juniatians in the highest levels of management at some of the country's largest businesses and corporations. In addition, graduates of the program can be found at many of the country's leading educational institutions where they are helping to shape the minds of America's future business leaders.

One individual whose stellar life experience in the world of business qualifies him for each of these categories is Charles Calvert Ellis, chairman of the Juniata board of trustees. Dr. Ellis, a 1940 honors graduate with an A.B. degree in economics, was recently honored for his ten-year stewardship of the board.

Dr. Ellis received his M.B.A. from Harvard University in 1942, and was awarded an honorary L.L.D. degree from Juniata in 1981. After retiring in 1982 as executive vice president for long range planning at RCA, the corporation he had been associated with for more than 10 years, Dr. Ellis became a Distinguished Lecturer at Georgetown University's School of Business Administration, a position he currently holds. Prior to RCA, Dr. Ellis had been associated with the Irving Trust Company, Philco-Ford Corp., Kordite Corp., Ford Motor Company, Armstrong Cork Company and the U.S. Navy.

The author of numerous articles and speeches on financial management, Dr. Ellis has served as director of such organizations as Hertz, Banquet Foods, Coronet Industries, Random House, and the Fred F. French Investment Company. Dr. Ellis maintains an avid interest in the arts and serves as chairman of the board of directors of the Pro Musicis Foundation.

Charles C. Ellis '40

In a recent interview, Dr. Ellis talked about his years on the board, Juniata's students, and the future of the College he has helped to shape since his graduation 48 years ago.

"One of my principle roles as board chairman is to support the administration and in particular the president of the college," Dr. Ellis said. "The presidency can be a lonely position and the chairman can often act as a sounding board and can offer a sympathetic ear and a guiding voice to whoever the chief executive is."

Dr. Ellis addresses a group of students at Georgetown University.

"Obviously the chairman and the board members can't be involved in the day to day operation of the College because of their remoteness and time constraints, but they can be supportive and they must help to raise funds that are necessary to keep the school going."

Dr. Ellis points with great pride to the Kennedy Sports + Recreation Center as one of the major milestones in his tenure as board chairman. He acknowledges, however, that his support was not with the project initially. "I was, quite frankly, opposed to it at first. The more I thought about it, though, the more I realized I was on the wrong trolley and that a tremendous amount of good can come of this. I suppose it's the result of having been born thirty years too soon. I was out of step with the importance of physical activity in everyone's life. I was a product of a period where the only ones to be involved in athletics were the football team, the basketball team, and the track team. Now we have almost universal participation in athletics.

"I think what I did best was run the board meetings," Dr. Ellis reflected. "I brought to the board a program which I used to refer to as 'show and tell.' I thought that one of the big inadequacies of most board members was that they really were never exposed to what was going on at the school. They would come in for two days without ever really becoming involved or developing an understanding of the various functions of the school. I proposed that we should have something at each meeting where half of the meeting would be dedicated to educating the members on the current campus situation."

In talking about the College, the faculty, the administration, and the current students enrolled at Juniata, Dr. Ellis spoke with genuine, heartfelt affection. "I feel very happy about Juniata College and where it is today," he said. "I feel that we have been fortunate to have an administration and faculty who have pushed the College into greater and greater accomplishment.

"I think there is still a tendency on the part of a lot of Juniata people to having a feeling of ... they used to call it an inferiority complex ... when they deal with people from better known and more prestigious schools. I feel, however, that Juniata is developing a great reputation based on one thing, the accomplishment of the graduates. In the final analysis, that's the proof in the pudding.

"Juniata is doing so many more innovative things today. We are doing much more in the area of total education of the student. We take a much greater personal interest in the students than do most schools. We've been blessed with a faculty that has had far greater interest in their students than you would find at almost any school. In the long run this really pays off for our students.... I think Juniata's pioneering work in the area of extracurricular activities and in particular the co-curricular transcript is an excellent idea which will pay tremendous dividends for our students."

The contributions that Dr. and Mrs. Ellis (Jean '42) have made to Juniata College will be felt for generations to come. The leadership of Dr. Ellis to the board over the past 10 years has helped to shape the College, preparing it to enter the next decade with confidence and vitality.

In conclusion, Dr. Ellis made a statement that very few would make, but one that is an indication of the high values and ethics which have guided his life. "If I had my life to live all over again," he said, "I'd do it all the same way." That is the mark of a truly stellar career.

AROUND AND BEYOND CAMPUS

Dolnikowski Remembers His Odyssey

By Paul Blaum

Editor's Note: This article, which appeared in the Huntingdon Daily News on May 20, was written by Staff Writer Paul Blaum.

Someone once said, "The past is a strange land, and people do things differently there."

Few would know this better than George T. Dolnikowski, recently retired professor of Russian and German at Juniata College. Born 70 years ago in the Russian town of Anna, near Voronezh, he was granted emeritus status by Juniata College two weeks ago, the last of many honors to accrue to this man of simple, almost self-effacing manners and profound learning.

Few teachers have had more to offer from the realm of their own experience, their own kaleidoscopic past.

At peace with the past

Dolnikowski has neither clung to his Old World heritage nor tossed it away like an old shirt. He is capable of analyzing it dispassionately yet he still walks with it. He has kept peace with his past.

As a boy he started the day with prayers to the icons. Thus it was fitting that his final service to Juniata College was to arrange the icon exhibit at Shoemaker Gallery on April 4-30. This exhibit showed 46 icons from the period 1400-1700, the golden age of Russian icons.

The occasion was the millenium celebration of the conversion of Russia to Orthodox Christianity (988 A.D.), and Dolnikowski (who himself owns a number of icons) saw an icon exhibit as the best way to commemorate that event.

He describes icons as "spiritual windows and mirrors...and an essential part of the Orthodox liturgy."

He had organized a smaller exhibit 17 years ago in connection with a course he taught called "Aspects of American and Russian Culture."

In organizing this year's exhibit, he secured the enthusiastic approval of Juniata President Dr. Robert Neff, then found a tireless collaborator in Dr. Robert Wagoner. Dolnikowski and Wagoner consulted first with Dr. Anthony Cutler at Penn State, who put them in touch with Dr. Natalia Teteriatnikov, curator of visual resources at Dumbarton Oaks Institute in Washington, D.C.

She and her husband, Vladimir, a specialist in icons, helped Dolnikowski and Wagoner line up their icons, 31 of which came from the Beltchev Collection in Switzerland. Once the icons arrived, Dolnikowski's tasks were not over. He still had to schedule 811 hours of around-the-clock security.

The age of ice and iron

As a child Dolnikowski remembers only slivers of information about a place called America. His vision of America was that of a "fairy-type of thing... vague, far away... sometimes I heard of words like Mississippi, Mark Twain, Philadelphia, New York..."

While still a child he admits becoming "infected" with the German language, and he says the study of German helped him overcome parochialism and view the larger world beyond. He had adolescent thoughts of studying abroad, particularly in Germany.

However, he was growing up in an age of ice and iron, the grim Stalin years. His father, an orchardist, was a devout son of the Russian Orthodox Church and was opposed to collectivization.

For this double offense the Communist regime banished him and his wife to Siberia, and they were never heard from again. Their property was seized and "collectivized" by the state.

During this time Dolnikowski was in school, attending the college-level Voronezh Institute of Foreign Languages. In his autobiography titled "This I Remember," he writes of his homecoming: "When I opened the door to the living room, I found it full of pigs. I looked into the kitchen area. There, in the middle of the room, was a furnace with a huge kettle.

"In the kettle was an enormous horse leg, boiling in the water. Steam filled the room, and its combination with the fire made me feel as though I'd just entered a kitchen of hell." Learning his parents had been banished, he fled from his native village and never returned, thus fulfilling a childhood prophesy made by a Gypsy woman.

Not surprisingly, Dolnikowski calls the 1930's and the years 1940-45 some of the darkest in Russian history. Even now, he says, "the hidden civil war still continues in Russia."

He remembers the famine ("We ate anything"). According to Dolnikowski, famine and Communist attempts to quench nationalism killed eight million in the Ukraine alone.

He remembers the purges of the middle and late thirties, and Stalin's list of over 50 kinds of enemies.

How many died in all? "Nobody knows how many victims... There were millions... In an absolutely controlled state they could do anything."

How could this happen? Very simple, he says.

Throughout history Russian society had been divided into landowners or nobility and the serfs. Though the serfs were liberated by Czar Alexander II in 1861, "the situation remained critical because of the polarization between the very rich and the very poor. That's why Marxist doctrine appealed to the very poor."

George Dolnikowski began his remarkable career at Juniata in 1950 as a janitor.

Dolnikowski explains, "Revolutionaries are liberal in theory and in time of conflict. When they take over, they become very conservative in practice... Furthermore, since the Russians had no experience with democracy, it was difficult for them to establish democratic institutions."

As a result of the 1917 Revolution, Dolnikowski says, "the state became the major private owner and the exploiter of the masses." The authoritarianism of the Communists was inevitable because of the historical development and geographical location in Russia. He says, "You need dictatorial government to rule that kind of country, especially in time of crisis."

Dolnikowski quoted one authority who said, "People have governments they deserve." Dolnikowski says this is true both of Russians and Americans.

In 1952, Dolnikowski heard a talk by Alexander Kerensky, who 35 years before had attempted a provisional democratic government quickly overthrown by the Communists. When asked why he failed, Kerensky answered, "I didn't fail. The Russian people failed." Dolnikowski notes this was Kerensky's way of saying that Russia could not assume the burden of governing itself.

In his paper called "Russia and America — Mutual Enigmas," Dolnikowski observed the anomalies, contradictions within the Russian psyche. A case in point would be the Janus-head Russian attitude toward authority — one face turned toward abject submission, the other toward cold-blooded nihilism.

Dolnikowski wrote, "Cruelty and humaneness also run hand in hand in the Russian character. The Russians are as likely to inflict suffering as they are to identify sincerely with suffering people. In Dostoevsky's 'Crime and Punishment,' Roskolnikov kills an old lady pawnbroker whom he considers to be a louse, because he loves humanity and wants to rid society of this type of exploiter." This does much to explain the Russian Revolution.

War and peace

In 1940-41, Dolnikowski taught elementary and advanced German at the Voronezh Institute of Foreign Languages, then was drafted by the Red Army when the Nazis invaded the Soviet Union (June, 1941).

Dolnikowski was sent behind German lines to decipher telephone messages. On one such spy mission he was severely wounded by a land mine and captured (October).

After 1,313 days as a German prisoner of war, Dolnikowski was liberated. He lived for a while in Salzburg, Austria, working at odd jobs.

Then in 1949 he met Joe Mow, who was connected with the Salzburg International Resettlement Office. Thanks to Mow and President Harry Truman's Displaced Person Act, Dolnikowski was able to come to the U.S. as a ward of the Church of the Brethren.

He first set foot on the Juniata College campus in January 1950, one month shy of 32. He was initially employed as a janitor and could barely speak English. Fortunately Dr. Fayette Avery McKenzie taught him English at his home.

When McKenzie saw Dolnikowski was making progress, he recommended that he go to college at Juniata. Dolnikowski took a B.A. in history from Juniata in 1952 and an M.A. in Germanic languages and literature from the University of Pennsylvania in 1954. Armed with a master's degree, he was accepted as a German instructor at Juniata College. In 1956, he became a U.S. citizen.

That same year, he found what in Russia could be called "my sweet little cucumber." Thanks to some skilled matchmaking, he married Joanne Phillips at the Presbyterian Church in Alexandria (Sept. 1, 1956, a "very hot day," he remembers).

George and Joanne had problems of mutual adjustment, but mutual respect and attraction won out, and in general, Dolnikowski says, the marriage helped him assimilate. He says, "Our marriage is very happy."

They had a son, Gregory, the next year.

(Gregory, a Huntingdon Area High School graduate, now has a Ph.D. in analytical chemistry from Michigan State University and teaches at Warwick University in Coventry, England. Gregory's wife, Edie, is doing research for her Ph.D. at Oxford.)

When the Russians electrified the world by launching Sputnik in Oct. 1957, Juniata College President Calvert Ellis asked Dolnikowski to teach Russian. He steeled himself for this task by taking coursework at Harvard University (1959-61), fulfilling the residence requirements, but because of health reasons and lack of time, never writing the dissertation.

Settling In

When asked how he adjusted to Huntingdon and Juniata College, he shrugs, "It is always easier to adjust from worse to better." Huntingdon had followed four years of life as a German POW (an experience 1 million Russian soldiers did not survive) and four more years as a displaced person.

In Huntingdon some whispered he was a Russian spy. He jokes: "In Austria I was a 'damned foreigner'; here I was a spy." Actually, he says, that was not such an insult since it takes brains to be a spy, a spy is "somebody." Playfully Dolnikowski once asked a student, "Is there anything to spy on in Huntingdon?"

(continued)

George and his wife Joanne were all smiles at the Faculty-Trustee dinner where George was honored this spring.

(Dolnikowski continued)

The early 1950's were the McCarthy Red-baiting years but Dolnikowski says, "McCarthyism never really touched me at all." In 39 years at Juniata, he was never once asked for his ID.

Dolnikowski says, "I found that Americans were very helpful if they see you strive to improve your life."

He says the best thing that happened to him was being placed in a dormitory where he had to think and talk English and interact with others. He says Harold Brumbaugh took him to every alumni association affair, and this too brought him into the mainstream.

He found a stalwart friend in the Church of the Brethren, which he joined. Dolnikowski says, "The Brethren people are very friendly and sympathetic."

He was fired by his own ambitions. He says, "I wanted to succeed as teacher, husband, neighbor, citizen." Of his profession he says, "Teachers have the opportunity to give... when I know less, I study; when I know more, I'll teach."

When asked his plans for retirement, Dolnikowski says, "To enjoy life... To do things I had no time to do before... to write... to translate... be in the elder hostel program."

One of his first post-retirement trips will be to "go down the Mississippi to New Orleans." The Dolnikowskis also plan to see the Grand Canyon, the redwoods of California and San Francisco." Dolnikowski says, "I'll be busy and happy."

When asked if the American and Russian systems can be reconciled, Dolnikowski observes, "It's not that the Russians don't like to possess things or that the Americans don't want an understanding. History has placed them on opposite sides."

He says, "Marx should have known you cannot live without a religion... Religion is about life... That's a lesson that the Russian Communists should learn, and they're learning it."

The whole burden of coexistence doesn't rest on the Russians, however.

Dolnikowski says, "Individualism made America great, but Americans should learn and are learning that world problems such as hunger, ignorance, and terrorism are not for one country to solve. World problems are for the world to solve."

Bock to Direct Volunteers

Larry Bock, Juniata College director of financial aid, has been promoted to the position director of constituency programs.

In his new position, Mr. Bock will be responsible for the training, direction and coordination of the many alumni, parents and friends who volunteer in service to the College. He will be a liaison between all offices of the College and their volunteers, although he will work most closely with development, admissions, career planning and placement, internships and college communications.

"The appointment will help Juniata meet the objective of attracting, developing and enhancing volunteer involvement," said Juniata president Dr. Robert W. Neff. The position was developed out of the recommendation of a consultant in June, 1987, and was established as an objective of the College to be accomplished during this year.

"Juniata is extremely excited to have Larry coming into the College advancement operation," said Dr. Clayton N. Pheasant, Juniata vice president for college advancement. "His interpersonal skills, his association with Huntingdon and his familiarity with our alumni and friends make him a logical choice to fill this position. We are fortunate to have many talented, loyal and motivated alumni, parents and friends who want to assist the College. We will now be in a better position to engage and use these volunteers in a way that is most beneficial to Juniata."

Mr. Bock, who became Juniata's director of financial aid in 1982, is a member of the Pennsylvania and National Associations of Student Financial Aid Administrators. Part-time Juniata women's volleyball coach for 11 years, Bock presently serves on the NCAA Division III volleyball committee and is chairman of the NCAA Eastern Regional volleyball committee.

A native of Somerset County, Bock resides in Huntingdon with his wife Lynn and daughter Anne. The Bock's are also expecting another child this July.

JC Students Receive National Honors

Five Juniata College students have been inducted into the National Physics Honor Society, Sigma Pi Sigma, for their outstanding academic achievement.

Ray Witmer, Jr., Bernard Smith, Nancy McCullen, Shawn McClain, and Douglas Blackburn were honored at a special ceremony by Dr. Ray Pfrogner, advisor and associate professor of physics, and Dr. Joseph Stewart, vice president and dean of academic affairs.

Sigma Pi Sigma chapters are restricted to colleges and universities of recognized standing which offer a strong physics major. Students elected to membership must attain high standards of general scholarship and outstanding achievement in physics.

Sigma Iota Rho Inducts New Members

Several members of the Juniata College community were recently inducted into the Iota Chapter of Sigma Iota Rho, the International Relations Honor Society.

The honorary members selected this year for their contributions to the International program at Juniata were Dr. Howard H. Crouch, professor of education, and Estelle Decherf, president of the Juniata College International Alumni Association.

Evelyn H. Church, assistant professor of Spanish, and Dr. Paul Heberling, associate professor of anthropology, also were honored. Students recognized for their contributions to the International Program were John Bobko, Robert DiAntonio, Margaret R. Goglewski, Krista S. Jones, David C. Smith, Sandrine Ansart, Mercedes Gonzalez, Yves Renan, Johannes Schaefer and Anita Shepherd.

The purpose of the International Relations Honor Society is "to promote and reward scholarship and service among students and practitioners of international studies and global relations and to foster integrity and creative performance in the conduct of global affairs."

Staff Members Join "The Ten Year Club"

Four members of the Juniata College staff were honored for 10 years of service during the Founders Day Tea this spring, marking the 112th anniversary of the College's founding.

Those honored at the tea, which was attended by College employees with 10 or more years of service, were: Dr. Jay D. Buchanan, director of counseling services and assistant professor of psychology; Margaret McChesney, registrar's office clerk; Dr. Laurence J. Mutti, associate professor of geology; and Beulah M. Norris, bookstore clerk.

Dr. Jay D. Buchanan came to Juniata from the Pennsylvania State University where he served as a counselor in the Developmental Year Program from 1974 to 1978. Dr. Buchanan received his Ed.D. degree from Penn State in 1978, his M.Ed. from Penn State in 1971 and his B.A. from Westminster College in 1962. Dr. Buchanan resides in Huntingdon with his wife Elaine and their three children.

A native of Derry, Pa., Margaret McChesney was employed as a billing clerk with Sears Roebuck and Co. prior to joining the College in 1978. Ms. McChesney was a former owner/operator of McRei Farms Market in Alexandria. She is a member of the Church Council of St. James Lutheran Church and is an active member of the Thousand Hills Hikers. She resides in Huntingdon with her four children, two of whom have graduated from Juniata.

Dr. Laurence Mutti joined the Juniata faculty as an assistant professor in 1978. Dr. Mutti was promoted to associate professor in 1982. He is a summa cum laude graduate of Beloit (Wis.) College. Dr. Mutti received his M.S. and Ph.D. degrees from Harvard University where he was supported in part by a National Science Foundation Graduate Fellowship. He was the 1982 recipient of the annual Lindback Foundation Award for Distinguished Teaching at Juniata.

Beulah Norris came to the Juniata College bookstore after working for two years at Isett's Gift Shop in Huntingdon. Prior to her stint at Isett's, Ms. Norris was employed by W.T. Grants in the Rt. 22 plaza for six years. She is an active member of the Calvary Baptist Church in Huntingdon. Ms. Norris is the mother of four and resides at R.D. 1, Alexandria.

During the Juniata Founders Day Tea, the four employees were inducted into the "Ten Year Club" and presented with citations and gifts.

Potter Jack Troy Enjoys Busy Spring

Jack Troy, assistant professor of art at Juniata, has a reputation as an innovative, world renown potter which continues to grow. His spring semester is indicative of how respected he is in the art community.

Prof. Troy taught a five-day workshop for advanced potters at Wesleyan Potters in Middletown, Conn., and had a one person exhibit of his recent wood-fired pottery. He attended the annual conference of the National Council for Education in the Ceramic Arts in Portland, Oregon. He gave a slide lecture at the Wyomissing (Pa.) Institute of Fine Arts where his work was on exhibit through April 19. Finally, Prof. Troy gave a two-day workshop and presented two slide lectures at Harvard's Radcliffe Pottery in Cambridge, Mass.

Prof. Troy's work is in great demand as well. Some of his pieces were part of a five person exhibition of wood-fired ceramics at Ten Arrow Gallery in Cambridge through the month of April. One of his wood-fired porcelain bowls was recently purchased by Alfred University for a major collection of contemporary ceramics. One of Prof. Troy's porcelain bottles was included in a national juried exhibition at Southern Illinois University and a wood-fired pot was part of a similar exhibit at the Laura Russo Gallery in Portland. The Russo show will travel to college and university galleries for the next two years.

Jack Troy gives last minute instructions to Juniata students in preparation to fire the anagama, a wood-fired kiln.

Deppen Captures Oratorical Award

Speaking on the responsibility of the electorate to change the course of American politics for the next four years, Juniata College sophomore John E. Deppen of Northumberland, Pa., captured the trophy for the 1988 Bailey Oratorical Award.

Six Juniata students addressed the contest topic "Election '88: A Privilege or a Responsibility?" The speakers were Mr. Deppen; sophomore Ty A. Furman of Sunbury, Pa.; senior John H. Foradora of Brockway, Pa.; sophomore Sarah C. Yerger of Elizabethtown, Pa.; sophomore Lynn L. Merritt of Baltimore, Md.; and sophomore J. Nathan Poling of Rochester, N.Y.

"Each of these men and women did an outstanding job and addressed the subject with intelligence and commitment," commented Robert W. Neff. "The task of selecting the winner from among them was not an enviable one. We commend the students and the judges for making this a very interesting evening."

Judging this year's contest were the Honorable Newton C. Taylor, president-judge of Huntingdon County Court of Common Pleas; The Reverend Dr. Earle W. Fike, Jr., pastor of the Stone Church of the Brethren in Huntingdon; and Dr. Cynthia Begnal, department of speech communications at The Pennsylvania State University. The program was moderated by Doris P. Goehring, assistant professor of speech and theatre at Juniata College.

Mr. Deppen reviewed what he considers to be the failures of the eight-year Reagan administration — hunger and homelessness in America, a belligerent and undistinguished foreign policy, and a government bureaucracy marked by hypocrisy and scandal at the highest levels. He called on the American people to put a new pilot at the helm of the "Ship of State." Only by exercising their right to vote, he said, could Americans fulfill the responsibilities of their citizenship.

A peace and conflict studies major at Juniata, Mr. Deppen is currently chairperson of the College's Human Concerns Committee and immediate past chairperson of the Committee on Alcohol and Education. A craftsman with the pen, as well as the spoken word, he has contributed articles to the Juniatian and poetry to the student literary review Kvasir.

Quinterians Hold Cultural Evening

Twenty-seven members of the Juniata Quinter Society gathered at the Williamsburg Conference Center May 5 for an evening of fellowship, fine dining and cultural entertainment.

The third annual meeting of the Quinter Society was centered around a program of late Renaissance music, performed by six members of the Moore Street Pro Musica of Huntingdon, led by Dr. Wilfred Norris of the Juniata faculty. This versatile group performed on various types of recorders and krumphorns, as well as the harpsichord, drum, and tambourine. This program included several intradas, dance pieces and love songs.

From a charter membership of 55, the Quinter Society has grown to over 70 members whose lifetime giving exceeds $8 million. Already in 1987-88, the Quinterians have given over $1.4 million to support many programs at Juniata, from scholarships to endowment for faculty development to the new athletic facilities project.

In his pre-dinner remarks, President Robert W. Neff likened the Society members to the namesake of the Society, Juniata's first president James Quinter. "Almost 100 years later," said President Neff, "the conviction that characterized Quinter's leadership is carried on by each of you. Juniata College and everyone who benefits from association with Juniata — students, faculty, townspeople, administration and alumni — owes each of you a real debt of gratitude."

The Juniata College Quinter Society was founded in 1986 to recognize those donors who have demonstrated a leadership position in giving to Juniata. Annual members of the Society contribute at least $5000 a year to the College. Donors become permanent members when their lifetime giving reaches $100,000.

For more information on membership in the Quinter Society, contact the Planned Giving Officer at Juniata, at (814) 643-4310.

Oratorical winner John Deppen accepts the Bailey Award from Dr. Robert Neff, college president.

New Simpson Scholar Recipient Announced

Robert Biter, a graduate of Bishop Carroll High School in Ebensburg, has been named the recipient of the prestigious Richard M. Simpson Memorial Scholarship.

The son of Beverly Biter and the late Leonard Biter, Robert was one of eight students, all of whom were in the top ten percent of their class and scored over 1100 on their SATs, who were invited to campus for the Simpson Scholarship Interview Day. Each of the eight students was interviewed by a committee made up of College faculty, administrators, relatives and past associates of the late Mr. Simpson.

One Simpson Scholarship is awarded to an outstanding incoming Juniata freshman student from Pennsylvania each year, and the award is considered the greatest scholarship honor a Juniata student can receive.

In addition to his outstanding academic accomplishments, Robert is the senior class president, editor of the yearbook, district champion of the Forensic Club, a letterwinner in cross country, an actor for the Cresson Lake Playhouse, vice president of marketing for Junior Achievement, secretary of the Parish Council, SADD chapter member, recipient of the Japan-U.S. Senate Youth Scholarship, National Science Merit winner, Academic All-American, first place winner in state competition for Pennsylvania Junior Academy of Science and the Hugh O'Brian State and International Alternate Ambassador.

Richard Murray Simpson, a native of Huntingdon, and a member of Congress from the 189th Congressional District of the Keystone State, was the senior representative on the Ways and Means Committee and chairman of the Republican National Congressional Committee. At the time of his untimely death after surgery in 1960 at age 59, Congressman Simpson had served in Congress for 23 years as one of the nation's foremost taxation authorities, and as a leader in Congress and in the affairs of his party. He had achieved a national stature that evidenced the importance of this public service.

The Simpson Memorial Scholarship, named and created in honor of the late Congressman, is awarded for a full four-year course, contingent on the maintenance of suitable standards by the individual recipients.

Considerable credit for the building of this scholarship fund goes to Mr. Thomas Martin, Washington, D.C., who was the counsel for the Ways and Means Committee of the Congress during the tenure of Mr. Simpson.

Congressman Simpson was born in Huntingdon on August 30, 1900, and grew up with President-Emeritus Calvert N. Ellis of Juniata College. As a boy, Mr. Simpson "walked the pole lines" to discover reasons for failure in electrical service furnished by a company founded by his father.

From the public schools in Huntingdon, he went on to service in World War I, and then entered the University of Pittsburgh where he earned an A.B. degree as well as performed as a regular for Pop Warner's great Pitt football teams of 1919-22. He further prepared himself for his national responsibilities by studying law at Georgetown University where he was awarded an LL.D. degree.

He served two terms in the State Assembly at Harrisburg, and then was elected to the 75th Congress in a special election in 1937. He served in the United States House of Representatives continuously until his death.

Although heavily burdened by Congressional duties, Mr. Simpson, in his own unassuming way, continued the friendships of his youth, his interest in his home community and his church. He was genuinely interested in the activities of Juniata College and did much to further its development. His interest in the education of youth is reflected in these words he spoke in an address he made in Pittsburgh a few months before his death: "I urge you to instill in your young men and women a comprehension of the significance of events in mankind's past so that mankind's future can reflect a continuity of human progress."

No other scholarship at Juniata carries such an extensive and prominent list of contributors as does the Richard M. Simpson Memorial Scholarship fund. Friends nationwide established this fund with a sponsoring committee headed by the Honorable Joseph W. Martin, Jr., former speaker of the House of Representatives and the United States representative from Massachusetts.

The scholarship is under the management of Juniata College with the income from the fund to be used for tuition grants to deserving students who evidence outstanding attributes of citizenship, useful purpose, and academic promise.

ICON Update

Due to the overwhelming response to the "Icons of the Golden Age Exhibit" the Washington Cathedral requested and was granted an extension on the amount of time the exhibit would remain in our nation's capital.

According to Dr. Robert Wagoner, director of special exhibitions at Juniata and one of the primary organizers of the exhibit, the icons remained at the Cathedral through June 10. According to Dr. Wagoner the exhibit was viewed by 300-400 visitors daily.

The exhibit moved on to New York's Interchurch Center on July 5 with a gala opening reception on Monday, July 11. The exhibit will remain in New York City through August 8. If the response at the opening reception is any indication, the New York showing will be every bit as successful as the Washington, D.C. venue.

From New York the exhibit will travel to Easton, Pennsylvania for a five week engagement beginning September 1 at Lafayette College before moving east again for a November 3 opening at the College of the Holy Cross in Worcester, Mass. In reaction to the reception the exhibit has drawn thus far, Holy Cross has also asked for an extension on the time they may display the exhibit. The icons will remain in Worcester through December 11.

An additional exhibitor has been added to the already impressive list of locations which will show this outstanding exhibit. Through the tireless efforts of Dr. Wagoner, Pittsburgh's Frick Art Museum will show the "Icons of the Golden Age" from April through May of 1989.

If you have yet to see the beautiful and truly incredible exhibit, by all means make plans to attend one of the future locations. This once in a lifetime show will be well worth the effort.

DAVID EMMERT: Artist, Educator, Naturalist, Humanitarian

Editor's Note: This story was written by Anne Catherine Emmert Lambert, grand niece of David Emmert. It was used as part of the promotional material for the David Emmert display in Shoemaker Galleries in May.

David Emmert, born six miles southeast of Hagerstown, Maryland, September 6, 1854, was the son of Leonard Emmert, preacher at the Manor Church of the Brethren, and his second wife, Sarah Beeler. The eighth of nine children, David matured quickly.

He grew up in a troubled time and heard the early rumblings of war across the fields from the Antietam Battlefield in Sharpsburg, Maryland. His father was deeply involved in the issues of his day, and both privately and from the pulpit, took a firm stand against war and intemperance. David would later refer to the terrors of death and war which had been such an ever present part of his childhood, and his work would frequently reflect them.

He enjoyed, however, and always remembered with pleasure his early days on the farm, for he felt a rare closeness to nature. He had a keen eye for detail, and his diaries and scrapbooks are filled with sketches of his early home and its furnishings, his room, and all the scenes etched in his memory. He worked on the farm, attended the public schools nearby, and frequently amused himself and his friends and family with his pencil and crayon.

For water colors, he would prick his finger for red, and boil onion skins for orange and yellow. He took long walks with his brother Jonathan (ten years older than he) to whom he was always close, and soon learned the names of all the local trees, flowers, and other plants. Later he was to suspect that his farm was the site of an earlier Indian village. He wished he had had an inkling of this when he was there, for his imagination was unlimited.

In 1872, when David was 18, he left home to work at the Frick

David Emmert strolls through the woods on a lovely spring morning in 1905. This special moment was captured by Lewis Emmert.

Manufacturing Company shops in Waynesboro, Pennsylvania. He became an apprentice pattern maker and worked three years in a shop that manufactured farm implements. Manual dexterity was one of his born skills, and he always worked hard at whatever he tackled.

While working in Waynesboro, David roomed with Professor Jacob Martin Zuck, who taught in high school. They learned that their families had intermarried, and they became close friends. After the premature death of David's brother Jonathan, a professor at Lafayette College in Easton, Pennsylvania, David became even more committed to the dream Jacob Zuck was already nurturing — the establishment of an educational home for children of the people in whose faith they were reared.

One day late in July, 1876, Jacob Zuck surprised David by inviting him to participate in the beginnings of Juniata College, which had actually opened April 17, 1876. In less than three weeks David was called home for the sudden death of his father. It was not until the autumn of 1877 that he was free to join his friends, Jacob Zuck and the Brumbaughs (Dr. Andrew B., Henry B., and John B.) in Huntingdon. There he shared an apartment with Jacob Zuck, who, recognizing artistic genius of a rare order, had great plans for David. The fall term of 1878 opened with two new departments, music and art, and David Emmert is listed in Juniata's first catalog as professor of drawing and painting.

Soon after his arrival in Huntingdon, David stopped in Blair's Bookstore and met the owner, John C. Blair. As they talked, David fashioned a pad to use for taking notes in Jacob Zuck's rhetoric class. He took a piece of stiff cardboard for backing, then clamped it (with four large carpet tacks) to a stack of papers trimmed to 5¼ x 8½. Thus was born the "Blair Tablet," which caught on quickly in the public schools. A year or so later, at Blair's request, David sketched on a piece of brown wrapping paper the design for the Keystone tablet, which is still seen today. By 1882 the Keystone trademark was recognized throughout the Western world.

David thrived in his new surroundings. He loved the natural scenery of the school — the mountains, valley, and the beautiful river. Almost at once he set out to work on an ink drawing of a view of Huntingdon for Thomas Hunter, the Philadelphia lithographer. The picture shows the town as seen from Shelving Rock, with vignettes of local buildings arranged in the corners and along the margins. It became available in July, 1878, and the proceeds from its sale went toward the Library and the Apparatus Funds.

David kept busy all the time. He would teach at Juniata until 1883, drawing, painting, and some of the sciences. He also worked as a student, attending many classes. He had the opportunity to attend the Pennsylvania Academy of Fine Arts in Philadelphia for a brief period. The student record files now show him as a student there in 1880. They also show that he exhibited a painting in the annual exhibit in 1883. While in Philadelphia he came to know Howard Pyle (who did a full sized bust of him which was later sent to the school) and James Whistler, two young artists on the scene there. Whistler was quoted by David's son, Ed Emmert, saying, "You come here and put on canvas just what you want to, while I've got to work like the devil to get what I want!"

In December, 1881, David married Catharine Amanda Scheller of Hagerstown, Maryland. The couple had three sons, Lewis, (Daniel) Scheller, and Gaius Edwin (Ed).

From his earliest years David had felt an overpowering sense of the beauties of nature. He had begun to draw at the age of five, and he worked at it constantly. The variations of light, the rush of the storm, the gray skies which preceded a snowstorm, the sunrises and sunsets — all had their own peculiar charms, and he always found the world lovely and fascinating. He saw pictures everywhere. The most common objects had their messages of beauty.

Art was a native spontaneous passion with him, and he exercised his talent in many ways. He also wrote innumerable articles for the school's and the Church's publications, illustrating them liberally with his facile pen.

Throughout his life David was very sensitive and alert to suffering. This naturally led to the organization of the Orphans' Home in Huntingdon in 1881 and a few years later, one in Hagerstown, Maryland. The first orphanage in that area was incorporated September 4, 1883, largely due to David's efforts, and he served there ten years as its first superintendent. During this period he gave his entire time to the direction of the homes at a small salary. Pictures and brushes and landscapes were relegated to the past to make room for the pressing demands of daily life. His child welfare work earned national recognition as the "Huntingdon Idea." According to his son, he put more than 800 children into homes. He measured the success of his work by the number of children he could place out in well-selected families.

His connection with Juniata College, however, remained unbroken. In 1884 he was elected to the first of nine consecutive three-year terms as trustee. In 1892 he returned to the campus, where he served for many years as professor of biology and botany, along with art. Teaching seven classes a day, he drew the plans and supervised the building of Students' Hall. Besides painting and illustrating numerous books and articles, he wrote and illustrated a history of the college, "Reminiscences of Juniata College — 1876-1901." For several years he served as editor of the Mt. Pleasant Printery in Harrisburg. He excelled as a writer and historian, and showed unusual versatility; but he did well everything he undertook. When earlier he had had the chance to return to the Academy of Fine Arts, he declined, saying "I guess this little school needs me now." He loved his art passionately, and it was his greatest sacrifice to give up the time and training it demanded to supervise the Homes and teach the young. He started many a picture he could not find time to finish, and when his life drew to a close, he said, "Well, if the Lord doesn't let me paint pictures in heaven, I've missed something on earth!"

In 1907 he returned to child care as secretary of the Huntingdon institution. After a long and painful illness (he was in bed for a year in his home at 1631 Mifflin Street in Huntingdon) David Emmert died June 21, 1911.

Eighteen of his paintings are now listed in the Smithsonian's Inventory of American Painting. Many more are owned by friends and members of his family and by Juniata College.

For a copy of a paper on David Emmert's life prepared by Prof. Earl Taylor write to Editor, Juniata Bulletin.

Alumni Can Participate in Career Fair '88

The Career Planning & Placement Office of Juniata College will be sponsoring a Career Fair on Wednesday, November 9, 1988. The purpose of Career Fair is to afford our undergraduate students an opportunity to talk to alumni about their career experiences. It is held in the Baker Refectory from 11 a.m. to 2 p.m. Participating alumni will be guests of the College for lunch.

If you are interested in participating in Career Fair '88, please contact Bill Martin in the Career Planning & Placement Office. The number is 643-4310 Ext. 350.

WEEKENDS AT JUNIATA

Athletic Project is Boosted by Four Major Contributors

As part of its spring meeting, the Board of Trustees of Juniata College recognized the major gifts of four couples whose collective contributions account for 25 percent of the $1 million goal of the Athletic Facilities Improvement Project. The recognition took place at the trustee's luncheon held on Saturday, May 7.

Those honored included: F. Sam and Martha Brumbaugh, of PenArgyl; Henry H. and Joan Gibbel, of Lititz; Betty Oller (whose gift was made in honor of her late husband, Jack) of Huntingdon; and Robert and Eileen Sill of Yardley. The honorees were presented pewter bowls in recognition of their support and leadership.

In recognizing the donors, Juniata President Robert W. Neff expressed his deep appreciation for their long standing support. "These loyal Juniataians have left yet another legacy for future students at this college. Their support for this and other projects undertaken at the College provides inspiration for everyone associated with Juniata. We are all indebted to them for their generosity."

F. Sam Brumbaugh, president of Bangor Cork Company of Pen Argyl, is a 1954 graduate of Juniata College. He is past president of Pen Argyl Exchange Club and Pen Argyl Area School Board. He served as mayor of Pen Argyl for four years and is currently a bank director for Northeastern Bank. Mr. Brumbaugh has been chairman of the President's Development Council since 1984. He was a member of the major gifts committee and a regional coordinator in PHASE TWO of the Century II Campaign. Mr. Brumbaugh is major gifts co-chair of the Athletic Facilities Improvement Project Leadership Committee. He and his wife, Martha, have six children, including Mary, a junior at Juniata. Mr. Brumbaugh is currently a member of the Juniata College Board of Trustees.

Henry H. Gibbel, president and chief executive officer of Lititz Mutual Insurance Company and currently chairman of the board of the National Association of Mutual Insurance Companies (NAMIC), is a 1957 Juniata graduate. He also serves as an officer and director of the Penn Charter Mutual Insurance Company, Excess Mutual Reinsurance Company, and is secretary/treasurer and past president of the Pennsylvania Association of Mutual Insurance Companies. Mr. Gibbel is a director of Farmers First Bank in Lititz, trustee of the Mutual Insurance Education Foundation, vice chairman and trustee of Brethren Village and a member of the President's Council of Bethany and general chairman of the Sports + Recreation Center phase of the Century II Campaign. Mr. Gibbel is a special gifts co-chair of the Athletic Facilities Improvement Project Leadership Committee. He is married to the former Joan Reist and they have three children including Henry R., a 1981 Juniata graduate. Mr. Gibbel served as an alumni representative to the Juniata Board from 1973-76. He was first elected to the Board in 1978 and his current term expires in 1988.

First row, L to R: Joan Gibbel, Betty Oller, Martha Brumbaugh, Eileen Sill. Second row, L to R: Dr. Robert Neff, Henry Gibbel, F. Sam Brumbaugh, Robert Sill, Klare Sunderland.

Betty Oller, a member of the class of 1923, made her most generous gift in honor of her late husband Jack, also a member of the class of 1923. A member of the Juniata College Board of Trustees from 1974 until his death in 1986, Mr. Oller was a professor emeritus of French and director emeritus of the foreign languages laboratory. Mr. Oller taught at Juniata from 1927 to 1965 where he was one of the pioneers in using the conversational method of teaching, thereby replacing rote, textbook learning. Mr. Oller was one of few Juniata athletes to win varsity letters in football, basketball, baseball and track. He went on to coach basketball and golf at the College for several years and was co-founder of the Indian Club.

Robert Sill is president of R.D.S. Insurance Agency, Inc. of Yardley. A 1954 graduate of Juniata College, he is a past president of the local Lion's Club; board member of the National Properties; yearly member of the Millionaire Club; member of the President's Club for outstanding sales; and member of the Career Club. He assisted in PHASE TWO of the Century II Campaign at Juniata and is a past president of the National Alumni Association. He is a member of the President's Development Council. His wife Eileen is a 1957 graduate of Juniata College and corporate secretary/treasurer of R.D.S. Insurance. Mrs. Sill is a member of the AAUW, the Morrisville Junior Women's Club, and is local chairperson of the Heart Association Fund Drive. As a Philadelphia area alumni club officer, she has hosted numerous receptions on behalf of the College for high school seniors and has organized several alumni club outings. Mrs. Sill assisted in PHASE TWO of the Century II Campaign and served on the 1986 presidential search committee. The Sills are currently major gifts co-chairs of the Athletic Facilities Improvement Project Leadership Committee.

The Athletic Facilities Improvement Project will include the construction of a new stadium structure at College Field, with seating for approximately 2,500 for football and track; resurfacing of the Jefford Oller running track with an all-weather composition material; and an athletic facilities maintenance endowment of $250,000. The college has, under the leadership of Honorary Chair Charles R. Knox, head coach of the Seattle Seahawks, and General Chair Klare S. Sunderland, president of Sun Enterprises of Camp Hill, raised $800,000 of the projected $1 million.

In conclusion, Dr. Neff pointed out the longstanding commitment to educating the whole person at Juniata College. "In addition to our commitment to academic excellence," he said, "Juniata is committed to co-curricular involvement and its major impact on the development of the whole personality. Our Facilities Improvement Project will greatly enhance our ability to offer the opportunity for total development of mind, body and soul at Juniata."

New Trustees are Recognized

In the 112 year existence of what is now Juniata College, strong and dedicated leadership has been an ongoing tradition. In continuing that tradition the Board of Trustees of the college has selected four new members to serve three-year terms.

The four, whose terms of office will begin in September, are Dr. Thomas R. Pheasant of Hershey; Dr. Raymond R. Day of Seattle, Wash.; Betty F. Simpson of Tyrone; and Charles M. Bieber of Royersford.

Representing the Juniata College Alumni Association, Dr. Thomas R. Pheasant graduated from Juniata in 1966. He earned his medical degree from Case Western Reserve and is currently a vitreoretinal surgeon for Pheasant-Lanning Associates in Camp Hill. Dr. Pheasant is a member of numerous organizations including the American College of Surgeons, the American Medical Association, and the Association for Research in Vision and Research in Ophthalmology. Dr. Pheasant is an active member of the Hershey area Juniata alumni club and served as a volunteer in the successfully completed Century II Campaign.

Dr. Raymond R. Day is a 1945 graduate of Juniata College and is a native of Huntingdon. He is currently regional representative for the United Presbyterian Foundation in the Synod of Alaska/Northwest serving the states of Alaska, Washington, and Northern Idaho. From 1968 to his retirement in 1983, Dr. Day served on the faculty of The College of Wooster in Ohio where he concluded his career as an associate professor of sociology. Dr. Day is currently a trustee of Presbyterian Ministries, Inc. He also serves as a board member of Presbyterian Counseling Service of Seattle.

Betty F. Simpson, a 1949 graduate of Juniata College, is vice president and co-owner of the Allegheny Mountain Network, a group of nine Pennsylvania radio stations. She is a former member of the Juniata alumni council and was active in the Kennedy Sports + Recreation Center phase of the successfully completed Century II Campaign. Mrs. Simpson also served as Juniata Valley gifts chair for the campaign's PHASE TWO. Mrs. Simpson was an English and social studies teacher in Tyrone for 10 years and currently serves on the Board of Trustees of Tyrone Hospital. An elder in the First Presbyterian Church of Tyrone, Mrs. Simpson has been active in Tyrone's Women's Club, Blair County Association of Citizens with Learning Disabilities, Johnstown Regional Blood Bank and the American Red Cross.

Representing the Atlantic Northeast District of the Church of the Brethren, Charles M. Bieber is currently pastor of the Royersford Church of the Brethren. A 1941 graduate of Juniata, Mr. Bieber received a bachelor of divinity degree from Bethany Theological Seminary in 1949 and earned an R.N. degree from the Pennsylvania Hospital School of Nursing in 1944. Mr. Bieber spent 13 years as a missionary in Nigeria, where he did nursing, ministerial and personnel work. While in Nigeria he was a member of the Board of Trustees of Hillcrest School and of the Theological College of northern Nigeria. He is the author of numerous articles, poems and stories which have appeared primarily in Church of the Brethren publications. Mr. Bieber is a former recipient of the Juniata College Alumni Achievement Award.

In addition to the newly elected trustees, the Juniata Board of Trustees reelected the following individuals to three year terms: Donovan R. Beachley, Jr. of Hagerstown, Md.; John McN. Cramer of Harrisburg; Philip D. Cronemiller, M.D. of Arcadia, Ca.; Dale W. Detwiler of Huntingdon; Henry H. Gibbel of Lititz; Warren F. Groff of Lombard, Ill.; W. Newton Long, Jr.; M.D. of Atlanta, Ga.; W. Clemens Rosenberger of LaVerne, Ca.; Klare S. Sunderland of Camp Hill; John W. Swigart of Huntingdon; and Robert E. Wagoner of Stamford, Ct.

At press time the appointment of Frances R. Hesselbein, national executive director of the Girl Scouts of the USA, to the Board of Trustees was pending. Look for expanded information on the appointment in the next editorial issue of the Juniata Bulletin.

Murray and Dolnikowski Receive Position Adjustments at Juniata

Dr. M. Andrew Murray, director of the Baker Institute for Peace and Conflict Studies at Juniata College, has been promoted to associate professor of religion and George T. Dolnikowski, retiring professor of Russian and German, has been granted emeritus status, according to Dr. Robert W. Neff, Juniata president.

A native of Roanoke, Va., Dr. Murray received his B.A. degree from Bridgewater College and holds M.Div. and D.Min. degrees from Bethany Theological Seminary. Prior to becoming Juniata's campus minister in 1971, Dr. Murray, now campus chaplain, served as pastor of the Peace Church of the Brethren in Portland, Ore., and the Little River Church of the Brethren in Virginia.

Dr. Murray has been teaching in the peace studies area since Juniata began the program in 1974. His wife, Teresa, is an instructional assistant in music at Juniata.

Professor Dolnikowski was born in the Soviet Union and came to Huntingdon after World War II (see separate story). He received his B.A. from Juniata in 1952 and his M.A. from the University of Pennsylvania.

He has retired this year after 34 years of teaching German and Russian at Juniata. Prof. Dolnikowski was honored at several events during trustee and commencement weekend activities.

In being named prof. emeritus, Prof. Dolnikowski will now be granted all the privileges of a full-time faculty member in a retirement role. He and his wife Joanne plan to continue to reside in Huntingdon.

Faculty Members Receive Promotions

Eight Juniata College faculty members were promoted by the College's Board of Trustees during its annual Spring meeting.

Dr. Robert W. Neff, president of the College, announced the Board's actions. Dr. Tom L. Fisher, associate professor of chemistry; Dr. Laurence J. Mutti, associate professor of geology; Dr. Ruth E. Reed, associate professor of chemistry; and Dr. Thomas W. Woodrow, associate professor of education; were promoted to professor.

Also, Dr. Fay I. Glosenger, assistant professor of education; Dr. Ronald K. McLaughlin, assistant professor of psychology; Loren K. Rhodes, assistant professor of mathematics and computer science; and Dr. Benjamin B. Sunderland, assistant professor of mathematics, were promoted to associate professor.

Dr. Fisher joined the Juniata faculty in 1976. He holds a B.S. degree from Old Dominion University and earned his Ph.D. in biochemistry from Iowa State University.

Prior to coming to Juniata, Dr. Fisher was a research associate and adjunct professor at Virginia Tech University and an assistant professor at St. Mary's College of Maryland.

Dr. Mutti joined the Juniata faculty as an assistant professor in 1978, and was promoted to associate professor in 1982. He is a summa cum laude graduate of Beloit (Wis.) College and received his M.S. and Ph.D. degrees from Harvard University, where he was supported in part by a National Science Foundation Graduate Fellowship. Dr. Mutti was the 1982 recipient of the annual Lindback Foundation Award for Distinguished Teaching at Juniata.

Dr. Reed came to Juniata as an assistant professor in 1976. She graduated magna cum laude from Winthrop (S.C.) College and received a Fulbright grant for study at the University of Goettingen, West Germany, before earning her Ph.D. from Virginia Tech University.

At Juniata, Dr. Reed has served as director of the foreign exchange program as well as chairperson of the department of chemistry. After a year as a visiting associate professor at the University of North Carolina, Chapel Hill, she was promoted to associate professor status by the college in 1986.

Dr. Woodrow is a 1958 graduate of Juniata and joined the college faculty in 1967. He holds an M.Ed. in biology from Indiana University of Pennsylvania and earned his D.Ed. in Higher Education from the Pennsylvania State University.

Dr. Woodrow was promoted to associate professor in 1976 and served as chairperson of the Juniata department of education for 12 years. He is certified by the Pennsylvania department of education as a consultant for science education in elementary schools.

Dr. Glosenger came to Juniata in 1982. She holds B.S. and M.Ed. degrees from the Pennsylvania State University, and also earned her Ph.D. in early childhood education from Penn State. She was director of the Early Childhood Education Center at Juniata from 1985-86.

Prior to coming to Juniata, Dr. Glosenger served as the coordinator and supervisor of elementary pre-student teaching practicum and was filial group leader at the Individual and Family Consultation Center at Penn State. She also taught for eight years in the East Lycoming School District, Hughesville.

Dr. McLaughlin joined the Juniata faculty in 1985. Prior to coming to the college, he was an assistant professor at St. Norbert College after teaching as an instructor at Northwestern University.

Dr. McLaughlin received his B.A. from the University of Missouri-St. Louis. He earned M.S. and Ph.D. degrees in social psychology from Northwestern.

Mr. Rhodes came to Juniata in 1980 and was promoted to assistant professor in 1983. He served as acting director of the Juniata Academic Computer Center in 1985-86 and was the 1986 recipient of the annual Lindback Foundation Award for Distinguished Teaching at Juniata. Rhodes, a native of McVeytown, holds B.S. and M.S. degrees from the Pennsylvania State University.

Dr. Sunderland was an instructor of mathematics at Juniata in 1977-78 and was named assistant professor of mathematics at the College in 1982. He was a teaching assistant at the Pennsylvania State University from 1970-77 and 1978-82.

Dr. Sunderland, a native of Lewistown and a Mt. Union High School graduate, was a summa cum laude graduate of Penn State. He holds an M.A. and Ph.D. in mathematics from Penn State and has additional studies in computer science at Penn State.

Henry H. Gibbel, president and chief executive officer of Lititz Mutual Insurance Company was presented the 1988 Insurance Person of the Year Award by the Professional Insurance Agents Association of Pennsylvania, Maryland and Delaware. Gibbel is a 1957 graduate of Juniata College and a member of the Board of Trustees.

Juniata Honors '88 Grads

In an address delivered to more than 250 graduates of Juniata College, Oregon Senator Mark Hatfield charged students to dream and to do, and above all to have faith. The address was presented on May 8 as part of the college's 109th commencement activities.

Senator Hatfield, long considered the "conscience of the Senate" since his 1965 lone dissenting position against the Vietnam War, urged the graduates to strive for "success as having faith, success as having a spiritual relationship, success as having a religious commitment beyond the materialism which is gripping us so much today in our culture, success where the anxiety is displaced by the ability and the realization in human relations that you too can put something of value into someone else's life.

"You already know that the world is a pretty grim place for millions of those with whom we share this earth," the Senator said. "One point three billion people do not have access to clean water today, desperately needing help. Eight hundred ninety million adults cannot read or write. One hundred million people have no shelter whatsoever and fourteen million children die of hunger related diseases every year, all representing unmet needs. . . .

Members of the Board of Trustees pay close attention to commencement activities under sunny skies on May 8.

"So what do you do . . . retreat into a self-centered, selfish world of mortgages paid, college tuitions invested, annuity checks in the mail? And what if that does not work? What if it brings the same emptiness and despair that turns one to it in the first place? Faith. Faith in God. Faith that produces a capacity to love others as self. Faith in what can be. Faith in what is good and pure. Faith that can lift us all out of that vicious trap of being possessed by our possessions.

"Each generation has the opportunity to advance the quality of life from what it is to what it can be. You have the ability to see beyond the world of what is, to the beautiful world of what can be. To see the butterfly and the caterpillar, the eagle and the egg and the saint and the sinner. But to see these things, to dream and to do, one must have faith. A philosopher once observed, 'Nothing worth doing is completed in our lifetime therefore we must be saved by hope. Nothing true or beautiful or good makes complete sense in any immediate context of history. Therefore, we must be saved by faith. Nothing we do, however virtuous, can be accomplished alone. Therefore, we are saved by love.'

"My friends, some difficult choices will lie in front of you when you walk out of here today. This is a complicated and often confusing world full of incredible beauty and unspeakable evil. What I ask of you is that you remember the words which the philosopher spoke to his son, 'This above all to thine own self be true.' And what I pray for you is that when you search your heart for your answers and your truths you will find the faith to sustain your walk through a life of true success and happiness. Congratulations!", the Senator concluded.

(continued)

Senator Mark Hatfield talks to Dr. Donald Mitchell prior to his commencement address on Oller lawn.

Senator Hatfield was honored with the degree Doctor of Humane Letters, bestowed by Juniata's president, Robert W. Neff, and the College's Board of Trustees. The commencement program was attended by over 2000 guests of the college.

Distinguished Faculty Members Honored

Two Juniata College faculty members, Dr. Robert E. Wagoner and Dr. Fay I. Glosenger, were honored with distinguished teaching awards during the College's 109th commencement ceremonies.

• Dr. Wagoner, professor of philosophy, was honored with the twenty-first annual Beachley Distinguished Professor Award. Dr. Glosenger, assistant professor of education, was presented the eleventh annual Lindback Foundation Award for Distinguished Teaching.

The Beachley Award was established by Donovan R. Beachley, Sr., a graduate of Juniata in 1921 and an emeritus member of the Board of Trustees; Donovan R. Beachley, Jr., Juniata class of 1947 and a current member of the Board of Trustees; and Mrs. Donovan R. Beachley, Jr., all of Hagerstown, MD.

The award provides a $2,000 stipend to a professor who contributes to the development of the nominee's department and the College as a whole. Teaching effectiveness, scholarly activities, service beyond the campus and length of service to the College also are important factors.

Nominations for the Beachley professor are received from students, faculty, administrative personnel, alumni and trustees. The final selection is made by the College's president, dean of academic affairs, student government president and the three most recent recipients of the award.

The last three Beachley Award recipients have been George Dolnikowski, associate professor of Russian and German (1987); Dr. Donald J. Mitchell, professor of chemistry (1986); and Dr. Robert P. Zimmerer, professor of biology (1985).

Dr. Wagoner joined the Juniata faculty in 1965 as an assistant professor. He was promoted to associate professor in 1968 and to professor in 1973.

L to R: Dr. Robert W. Neff, Dr. Fay T. Glosenger, Dr. Robert E. Wagoner, Dr. Charles C. Ellis, Dr. Joseph V. Stewart.

A graduate of Manchester College, Dr. Wagoner received his Ph.D. in history and philosophy of religion from Harvard University. He served as assistant professor of philosophy and religion at Bridgewater College from 1962-64 and was a teaching fellow in general education at Harvard from 1958 to 1962.

Dr. Wagoner studied at Bethany Theological Seminary from 1952-54 before undertaking extensive travel through Central and South America. From 1954-56 he was a teacher and high school principal with the Brethren Service Commission in Castaner, Puerto Rico.

In introducing Dr. Wagoner, Juniata College President Robert W. Neff said, "It is difficult to highlight 23 years of distinguished service. The following items would be a mere sketch of his full career:

More than 2,000 alumni, parents, friends, students and college personnel were in attendance at the 109th commencement exercises.

— Dr. Wagoner has been a principal factor in the development of the Juniata curriculum. He participated in the creation of the GE 200 series of courses and was on the committee that recommended to the faculty the current liberal arts requirement.

— Students rate him as one of our better teachers.

— He has been an ongoing scholar of philosophy including such diverse fields as philosophy of science and aesthetics.

— He was selected as the division chair of humanities.

— Most recently he has been the person in charge of the icon exhibit which is sponsored by Juniata College in celebration of the 1000th anniversary of the baptism of Kievan Rus. This exhibit has brought to Juniata national recognition."

Funded by the Christian R. and Mary F. Lindback Foundation of Philadelphia, the Lindback Award provides a $500 stipend. Selection criteria includes contributions to the total educational effort of the College, and outstanding work by a junior faculty member who has served the College for seven or fewer years.

The award recipient is selected by the College president who is assisted by a committee of faculty members. Last year's recipient was Dr. Debra Ann Kirchhof-Glazier, associate professor of biology.

Dr. Glosenger joined the Juniata faculty in 1982 as an instructor in education and was promoted to assistant professor in 1985.

Dr. Glosenger was awarded her Ph.D. in early childhood education from Penn State University in 1985. She received her B.S. degree in elementary-kindergarten education and her M.Ed. in academic curriculum and instruction from Penn State as well.

The author of many professional articles and publications, Dr. Glosenger served as coordinator and supervisor for Penn State's Office of Clinical Experiences prior to accepting her position at Juniata.

Dr. Glosenger also served as a filial group leader at the individual and family consultation center with the University.

In introducing the award winner, Dr. Neff said, "Students have consistently rated her as one of the best teachers on our faculty. They have also been very appreciative of her conscientious work as an advisor and her willingness to spend time with students outside the classroom setting. She works at helping our students learn and she works at keeping them interested."

Andrea Zavod is one of the more than 250 happy graduates on commencement day at Juniata.

Burkholders' Generosity is Never Ending

W. Clay and Kathryn H. Burkholder have displayed yet another example of their dedication to education and Juniata College with the establishment of a generous trust fund to be used for scholarship endowment to aid students.

Juniata College President Robert W. Neff announced during Commencement activities that the endowment of $567,000 will be known as the W. Clay and Kathryn H. Burkholder Merit Scholarship.

The income from the endowment fund will be used in each fiscal year to provide one or more scholarships to students majoring in pre-medical science or music. Criteria to be used to select worthy students will include academic merit, leadership qualities, intellectual ability and participation in extracurricular activities.

The selected student or students will receive a scholarship covering all academic fees and tuition, room, board and related costs incurred through attendance at Juniata, as well as the sum of one thousand dollars.

"This is by far the largest scholarship, in terms of monetary value, made available to our students. The Burkholders' service, loyalty and generosity to Juniata College throughout the years, and especially with this gift, have made a real difference to the future of the College," said Dr. Neff.

W. Clay Burkholder earned his bachelor of science degree in 1935 from Juniata College and a master of education degree from The Pennsylvania State University. He served 38 years as a public school administrator, a teacher, principal, superintendent, and executive director of the Tuscarora Intermediate Unit before retiring in 1974.

Mr. Burkholder's love of education and students extends beyond the classroom. Over the years, he has served Juniata College in a number of roles. He is a member of the Board of Trustees and the Quinter Society, and has served as chairman of the President's Development Council, chairman of the Annual Support Fund, president and vice president of the Alumni Association, member of the Alumni Council, president of the Kishacoquillas Alumni Club and class fund agent.

In 1985 Mr. Burkholder was presented an honorary doctor of laws degree for his "egalitarian vision that transcends sentimental dogma" and has kept him focused on his life's calling to provide children with the best possible education.

Kathryn, like her husband, has dedicated her life to education, teaching public school for 39 years. Her love and devotion to children of all ages has been apparent throughout her lifetime.

Mrs. Burkholder, a friend of Juniata since 1943, has earned the respect of hundreds of alumni for her 45 years of support and assistance to Clay and all of his College related activities.

Metz Couple Receives Service Award

Two prominent Juniata College alumni were honored during Reunion Weekend activities with the prestigious Alumni Service Award.

Harry and Catherine Metz of Belleville were selected by the Awards and Nominating Committee of the Alumni Council to receive the 1988 Service Award.

A member of the class of 1937, Harry Metz has served Juniata as a Class Fund Agent, a volunteer in the successful Century II Campaign, chairman of the Founders Club, and member and chairman of the President's Development Council.

In addition to his service to the College, Mr. Metz has had a productive career in banking, insurance, and real estate. He is the founder of the Metz Agency, Inc., an insurance and real estate business which was sold in 1985. Mr. Metz was an officer and director of the First National Bank of Mapleton for many years, serving as board chairman since 1976. Following Mellon Bank's acquisition of the First National Bank of Mapleton in 1986, Mr. Metz was selected to be a director of Mellon Bank Central.

Mr. Metz has also been active in many civic and community affairs. He has chaired United Way Campaigns in Juniata and Mifflin counties, served on the Municipal Water Authority and is an active member of the St. Johns Lutheran Church in Belleville.

Catherine Metz, a member of the class of 1938, has served the College as secretary/treasurer of the Kishacoquillas Alumni Club and has been a vital link in the College's annual reunion planning.

Mrs. Metz has served on the Mifflin County Library Board, the Mifflin County Red Cross Board, the Big Valley Medical Center Auxiliary, and the Belleville Civic Club. Mrs. Metz served as a Girl Scout leader for 20 years. She is also active in the St. John's Lutheran Church of Belleville. The Metz's are long time supporters of the College and are charter members of the Quinter Society.

In presenting the award to Mr. and Mrs. Metz, David Andrews, president of the National Alumni Association, said, "Your continuing service, dedication and leadership have demonstrated a rare and deep love and affection for your community and Juniata College. Your personal and professional accomplishments have brought well-deserved recognition to you and your alma mater."

L to R: Dr. Robert Neff, Catherine Metz, Harry Metz, David Andrews.

Mr. Andrews cited the Justina Marsteller Langdon Prize, which Mrs. Metz won in 1938 as the senior girl who best exemplified the spirit of helpfulness to others, gentleness of character, and loyal devotion to the college. "The qualities that gave reason to honor then," Mr. Andrews said, "today have grown in both of you a hundred-fold. Therefore, it is with much pride and pleasure that the Alumni Council presents to you, Harry and Catherine Metz, this citation for service as a token of our sincere gratitude and appreciation."

The award was presented during the annual National Alumni Association luncheon held in Baker Refectory of Ellis College Center.

Alumni enjoyed a delicious Reunion Weekend surf and turf dinner on Oller lawn.

Wohlbruck is New Alumni President

Aliceann Wohlbruck of Washington, D.C., recently assumed the role of president of the National Alumni Association of Juniata College.

A member of the class of 1958, Ms. Wohlbruck thanked outgoing president, David P. Andrews, of Altoona, during the annual spring Alumni Council Meeting for a year of dedication and hard work.

Ms. Wohlbruck is the executive director for the National Association of Development Organizations (NADO). She has been a consultant for numerous groups of state and local officials, including the consultant to the National Governors' Association. In addition to her participation in the Washington, D.C. Area Alumni Club, Ms. Wohlbruck served as the chairperson of the Alumni Council Communications Committee and as a volunteer in PHASE TWO of the Century II Campaign.

"Aliceann possesses abundant energy and excellent managerial skills. We are delighted to have her serve as the president of the Alumni Association. I feel confident that she will continue to maintain the communication between alumni and the campus," said Dorothy L. Hershberger, director of alumni relations.

Replacing Ms. Wohlbruck as vice-president is Linda U. Phelps of Flourtown, Pa. A 1966 graduate of Juniata College, Ms. Phelps is a fourth grade teacher at William Penn Charter School. She serves as the program director of the Independent Teachers' Conference; program chair of the Mid-Atlantic Teachers' Conference; and member of the fund raising committee for the Philadelphia Homeless. Ms. Phelps was a volunteer for the Century II Campaign and has been actively involved in her local alumni club. She and her husband, Davis, organized the Juniata soccer team booster club.

The newest alumni representative to the College's Board of Trustees is Dr. Thomas R. Pheasant of Hershey, Pa. Dr. Pheasant, a 1966 graduate of Juniata College, earned his medical degree from Case Western Reserve University and is a vitreoretinal surgeon for Pheasant Lanning Associates in Hershey. (see separate story)

Also taking office are six new members of the Alumni Council. They are: Eugene R. Brumbaugh '46 of New Orleans, La., geophysical consultant; Karen L. Orr '76 of Huntingdon, Pa.; Lynn B. Shaffer '66 of Harrisburg, Pa., chemist for the Pennsylvania Department of Environmental Resources Bureau of Laboratories; Thelma E. Scott '38 of Westminster, Md.; Christopher W. Umble '74 of Pittsburgh, Pa., director of marketing communications for PPG Industries; and Ellen S. Wallace '77 of Tyrone, Pa., attorney.

David Andrews welcomed new alumni council members at the luncheon held in Baker Refectory. Pictured are (l to r) Aliceann Wohlbruck, council president, Karen Orr, Lynn Shaffer, Linda Phelps, council vice-president, and David Andrews, outgoing president.

Friends, fun, fellowship and food made Reunion weekend complete for Juniata alumni.

WANTED Alumni Volunteers

Reunion '89 will be here sooner than you think! Join the fun and help plan your reunion. The classes of '84, '79, '74, '69, '64, '59, '54, '49, '44, and the 50th Reunion class of '39, plus all Emeriti (classes prior to '39) are searching for Reunion Coordinators to help plan class activities. If interested, call Larry Bock in the Alumni Office at: (814) 643-4310 ext. 214

MARK your calendars for Reunion '89!

May 19, 20, and 21, 1989!

SPORTS

Spring Teams Looking Ahead

Baseball

It took the young Indians several weeks to mature in 1988, but the results were a late-season eight-game winning streak and a 14-12 finish. Coach Bill Berrier's club started in an 0-4 hole after opening the season in Virginia before beginning the Middle Atlantic Conference schedule.

The Tribe completed its trip through the MAC Northwest league with a 7-5 record, good enough for third place behind Susquehanna and first-place Elizabethtown, a NCAA Division III playoff qualifier. Juniata lost six games to national top ten teams, including E-town twice, and dropped two to 15th-ranked Susquehanna.

"We had a very young team and a number of inexperienced mistakes cost us an outstanding season," said Coach Berrier. "We started freshmen at short, in some cases third, right field and on the mound in many of our games. I was extremely happy with their development, and the potential is really unlimited. We're losing only one senior starter (catcher Dan Webb) from the lineup, so the future looks awfully good for our program."

Last year's leading hitter, Webb led the team this spring with 15 doubles. He was second in hits (35) and batted at a .385 clip. He was a second team All-conference pick.

Freshman Kevin Neff, a first team All-MAC selection, led a powerful lineup with 37 hits and nine home runs. He hit .420, just a point behind junior Paul Hayduk, the team leader in average. Sophomore Daryle Dobos batted .385 and was also a second team All-league choice.

Neff was atop the pitching stats with a 3-3 record, three saves and a 1.90 earned run average. Freshman Scott Munro was 3-2, as was classmate Mike Reed.

Berrier loses senior pitcher Kurt Spiess and outfielder Dan Sunderland to graduation along with Webb. The veteran coach completed his 19th season at the helm on College Hill.

Junior second baseman George Zanic raps out one of the many Indian hits this season at Langdon Field. Juniata put together an eight-game winning streak late in the season to finish 14-12 for veteran coach Bill Berrier.

Golf

The Indians didn't take long to feel comfortable on their new home course at the Huntingdon Country Club. Juniata completed the season with a 4-2 record in an all home match schedule.

On the road, however, the Tribe didn't fare as well with ninth and 11th place finishes in tournaments at Susquehanna. The Indians did come in a promising eighth out of 15 teams at Dickinson.

Coach Duane Stroman will look for better things to come next spring as ever contributing players return.

Junior Tim Garvin was team MVP with an 85.8 strokes per match average. Classmates Cubby Davis (87.0) and Mike Cottle (89.0) were the other Indians to average under 90 shots a round in 1988.

The Tribe did not compete in the Middle Atlantic Conference tournament this year due to a conflict with commencement exercises.

Softball

Probably the most youthful roster out of an overall young group of Juniata spring sports athletes belonged to the women's softball team. Third-year coach Dick Scialabba '59 had just one senior but nine freshmen on an 8-16 squad that lost seven games by two runs or less, including five in a row by a one or two run margin during a midseason seven-game losing skid.

"We were just a little bit too inexperienced to know how to win some of the tight games," said Coach Scialabba. "We were very close to having our record turned around. However, we'll have a young and now experienced nucleus returning for the next couple years. The future looks very bright for our program."

The bright spot in 1988 was a brilliant 1-0 win over nationally-ranked Elizabethtown, the Middle Atlantic Conference champion and NCAA Division III playoff qualifier. Freshman Kate Bradley tossed a one-hitter to lead the Indians to their second win over the Blue Jays in three seasons, a feat no other MAC school has accomplished.

Bradley had an 8-15 mound mark in 23 complete games and a respectable 3.75 earned run average. She led the team in almost every offensive category as well, batting .411 with 25 runs scored.

Sophomore Roberta Goshler was tops on the squad with 26 hits, while freshman Jennifer Dippery had the only home run for the Tribe. Junior outfielder Emily Beach was the team MVP.

The lone senior, second baseman Jennifer Wade was selected to the All-

Academic team for the Middle Atlantic Conference and received third team Academic All-American honors as well.

Men's Tennis

The Juniata men's tennis team was in the spotlight in 1988 and put together a grand performance. The Indians finished 10-3 to tie a school record for wins. The 1969 Tribe finished with a 10-1 mark.

Coach Rob Ash's squad started the season with a seven-match winning streak before losing at IUP, a Division II team. The Indians were looking to make the Middle Atlantic Conference team playoffs, but fell a match short after losing to MAC Northwest champion Albright, 4-5 at Reading.

However, senior Dan Corazzi and sophomore Jon Seckinger teamed to advance to the doubles semi-finals of the MAC Individual Tournament. The pair was eliminated by the eventual MAC champion duo of David Marshall and Peter Maller of Washington College, ranked third in NCAA Division III.

Corazzi, 10-2 in singles, and Seckinger (9-4) finished with a fine 11-3 doubles record this spring.

Juniors Rich Gottschall (9-5) and Chris Glover (7-5) were Juniata's entries in the MAC singles competition. Sophomore Mike Welker completed his first season as a regular in the Tribe lineup with a 9-1 mark at the #6 singles position.

Women's Tennis

The Juniata women's tennis team completed the season at 6-5 for coach Ray Pfrogner.

The doubles team of sophomores Amiee Buckbee and Julia Thaler ended the regular season with a 9-0 record before drawing the second-seeded team in the first round of the Middle Atlantic Conference tournament at F&M. The pair went down in straight sets despite a tough fight.

Buckbee was 7-1 in singles while Thaler finished 6-4. Lynda Cass and Sue London, both 3-8 in singles, also bowed out in the first round at MAC's.

Junior transfer Allison Frutcheay was an impressive 7-1 in singles play. Classmate Lara Mann completed the campaign at 4-6.

The young Indians were 2-3 in the MAC Northwest league.

Jennifer Wade '88 (at the plate) became Juniata's first softball Academic All-American when she was a third team selection at second base in May. Wade was the lone senior for the Indians.

Kirsten Grell '90 hoped to score from third base during a 1988 home softball game. Coach Dick Scialabba, whose young team upset nationally-ranked Elizabethtown during an 8-16 campaign, looked on from the coaching box.

Men's Track

The Indians finished the 1988 track and field season with a 3-3 record for coach Alan Hartman.

Senior Frank Phelps was the only Juniata athlete to score points in the Middle Atlantic Conference meet at Western Maryland with a fifth place finish in the 100 meter run and sixth place time in the 200.

Hartman got fine performances, however, from MAC meet participants Brent Bittner, Jim Golden, Randy Martin and Eric Mitchell, all juniors, and freshman Frank Shue.

Women's Track

The Tribe had a 2-5 record in women's track and field in 1988, also under Coach Alan Hartman.

Sophomores Renee Malkin and Laurie Snow were the only two athletes to compete in the Middle Atlantic Conference meet to end the season.

Malkin did not place, but had personal bests in the long and triple jumps. Snow, who battled a shoulder injury all season, couldn't match her rookie campaign when she qualified for the NCAA Division III nationals and placed ninth.

The Indian men and women are looking forward to 1989 when they will host meets on a new all-weather track and stadium facility.

— 1988 Fall Season At Juniata Holds Much Promise —

Football

The Indians own 24 victories over the past three seasons for coach Rob Ash, but have come up one game short of a Middle Atlantic Conference title during 8-3, 9-2 and 7-3 campaigns. Coach Ash is hoping 1988 is the year the Tribe adds the win it takes to capture an MAC crown.

Juniata returns 21 letterwinners and 10 starters on offense, and 14 lettermen on defense, including six starters. The Tribe graduated six players this spring.

An experienced offense will be led by senior quarterback Cubby Davis of Hollidaysburg, who, after just one season as starter, owns a number of school passing records. His receiving corps features classmates Don Betar, also of Hollidaysburg, Mike Cottle of Everett and co-captain Jim Metz of Medford, NJ.

Running backs Dan Crossey, a junior from Verona, and sophomore Dennis DeRenzo of Reading will lead the rushing attack and catch balls out of the backfield. The entire offensive line returns for Coach Ash, including All-MAC guard Mike Martin of Monroeville.

The defense must replace five starters, most notably All-American Mark Dörner, who set a new NCAA record with 15 interceptions last fall. Juniata will rely upon the quick development of several young backup players from a year ago and the leadership of co-captain Tim Kirsch of Hollidaysburg in the secondary.

Linebacker Frank Gay, a senior from Ebensburg and the team's leading tackler a year ago, also returns as does senior lineman Dave Ritter of Harrisburg.

The Indians are scheduled to open the 1988 campaign in our new stadium facility on September 10 against Washington and Jefferson, a NCAA Division III playoff qualifier last year. Coach Ash calls the opener "the best small college game in the country" on that Saturday with the winner "a safe bet for the national top 20."

Soccer

Coach Klaus Yaeger heads into his 10th season as soccer coach at Juniata hoping his Indians can start to win the one-goal matches. Last fall, the Tribe was victimized by close defeats on the way to a 3-10-3 record after going 4-10-2 in 1986.

Some of the players expected to return and help the Indians as they strive for their first .500 season include seniors Bruce Nardy of Unionville and Steve Grater of Ephrata, and juniors Tim Phelps of Flourtown and Bob Kelly of Keene, NH. Yaeger will also welcome other returning squad members into camp, plus another fine group of incoming freshmen.

The Tribe was fifth in the seven-team Middle Atlantic Conference Northwest League last fall with a 1-4-1 mark. Juniata lost at Elizabethtown to the league and conference champion Blue Jays by only a 1-0 margin. The Indians lost eight matches by a single goal.

Cross Country

The Juniata men's cross country team is hoping that the lumps it took last year will turn into jumps up the victory ladder this fall. Coach Jim Payne's harriers were 2-8 last season.

Senior quarterback Cubby Davis is expected to throw often again in 1988 after a record-breaking campaign last fall. Mike Martin, also a senior, will anchor the line for an offense that returns all 11 starters from a 7-3 season.

The Indians return six letterwinners from a squad that lost four seniors to graduation. Heading this year's returnees is sophomore Ted Breult of Coraopolis, last season's team MVP.

Sophomores George Bentzel of West Chester, Andy Larmore of Wilmington, Del., and Doug Lawson of East Brunswick, NJ, were also letterwinners last year. Jeff Moseman of Quarryville is the lone junior letterman back while Jeff Boshart, a senior from Lebanon, was also a monogrammer.

The men's team improved from 0-11 in 1986, and finished 19th out of 21 teams in the Middle Atlantic Conference championship race at Haverford.

Coach Payne led the women's squad to a 2-7 mark last fall, and a 14th of 16 ranking in the MAC meet. Three letterwinners return this fall for the lady Indians.

Senior Cricket Julius of York, junior Renee Malkin of Central City and sophomore Mary Strapple of Monroeville will lead the team in 1988. Three letterwinners from last year were lost to graduation, including MVP Sue Gulla.

Field Hockey

Coach Kathi Quinn moves into her third season this fall as field hockey coach at Juniata. The 1988 Indians will feature 17 returning letterwinners from last year's 3-7-3 squad, which was 2-8-1 in 1986.

Seniors Mickey Hoffman of Orbisonia and Joanne Thomas of Chester, NJ, are three-year letterwinners while juniors Kathleen McGowan of Runnemeade, NJ, and Genny Warner of Hummelstown have lettered the past two years.

Jill Schadler, a sophomore from Perkiomenville, was the team MVP last year and also garnered All-Middle Atlantic Conference honors in the Southwest league. A fine recruiting year means the future is bright for the rising program.

Volleyball

Juniata coach Larry Bock will make it a dozen seasons this fall when his Indians take the court for the 1988 women's volleyball opener. He loses two senior starters from a 1987 team that finished 53-3 and fourth in the country after its third straight trip to the NCAA Division III Final Four.

Coach Bock must replace three-time All-American setter Beth Hoppel and Cathy Miller, who earned All-American and Academic All-American honors last year. He does, however, return second team All-American Jackie Rebert, a senior from York, to help lead the Indians.

Team captain Dana Worthington of Johnstown and Sue Gelston of Phoenix, Md., join Rebert as seniors in 1988. Juniors Rhonda Bygall of Brogue, Tonya McClucas of New Paris, Angie Shue of York, Laurie Snow of Altoona and Kris Witchey of Grand Junction, Col., were letterwinners a year ago.

Sophomores Amy Allshouse of Altoona, and Gina Leis and Michelle Wissinger, both from Johnstown, will be joined by a talented freshman class.

The Tribe will once again play a demanding schedule, including several of the top tournaments in the East. At the end of the regular season, Juniata will go for its eighth straight Middle Atlantic Conference championship.

L to R: Jim Metz, Rob Ash, Tim Kirsch

Kirsch and Metz Are Co-Captains

Tim Kirsch of Hollidaysburg and Jim Metz of Medford, NJ, have been elected captains of the 1988 Juniata College football team, according to head coach Rob Ash.

Mr. Kirsch, a senior from Hollidaysburg High School, is a senior defensive back while Mr. Metz, also a senior, is a tight end from Cherokee High School.

"The team did an excellent job of selecting their leaders," said Coach Ash, whose team was 7-3 in 1987. "Not only are both outstanding players on the field, but they are excellent citizens and good examples off the field."

The son of Mark and Paulette Kirsch of Condron Street, Hollidaysburg, Tim is an environmental science major. Jim is the son of James and Katherine Metz of Blackhawk Court, Medford, and is a biology major.

CLASS NOTES

20

Elmer W. Miller, and his wife are enjoying life in Somerset, Pa. He has reached the wonderful age of 92 and his wife is now 88.

29

John Arthur Ferner of Medford, NJ writes that he is presently a member of the Board of Directors of Drenk Mental Health Clinic in Mt. Holly, NJ.

Florence E. Coll-Olson and her husband inform us that their lives are quite normal in Sarasota, Fla. at age 81. Their two children are now "middle-aged responsible citizens." Out of their eight grandchildren, five have their masters or doctoral degrees and the other three are still students. They recently visited Johnstown for a family reunion and found themselves the "family oldsters."

30

John M. Brumbaugh of Lansdowne, Pa. asks "can agonizing travail (or euphoria) of dedicated scholarship to a sacred endeavor possibly result in a manifestation of spiritual revelation?" He thinks so, what's your opinion?

31

Eula G. Fyock informs us that she has been the chairman of the Film Committee at the Brethren Village in Lancaster, Pa. the past six years. She is also quite busy with volunteer activities and gardening. She hopes to see many Juniata's at the Church of the Brethren Annual Conference in St. Louis in July.

32

Margaret (Baker) Cuppett and her husband, Charles celebrated their 50th wedding anniversary on August 23, 1987, at their home in New Paris, Pa. The open-house was planned by their children, Phoebe (Cuppert) Caverly '62 and Dr. C. Cecil Cuppett '66 and was attended by over 400 people.

41

Stephen L. Willard recently wrote that he is still watercolor painting and recently won 2nd place in an art exhibit sponsored by a local bank. Stephen resides in Spartanburg, S.C. where the exhibit was held and open to six Carolina counties. Congratulations.

44

Gladys T. Stuart of Mayville, NY is a proprietor of a bed and breakfast house since her retirement from the Milwaukee school system in 1984. Her place of business is located on Highway 394 just 1½ miles south of Chautouqua Institute in Chautouqua, New York.

1988 Choir Tour

March 4 through March 13, 1988

The 1988 Choir Tour was planned by Dr. Joseph Figg and piggybacked by the Alumni Office. Dorothy L. Hershberger and spouse, Rex, followed the choir from York through New England, New Jersey and back to the National Cathedral in Washington, D.C. Alumni and friends were invited to join the choir for meals and concerts all along the way. Parents, friends, alumni, and prospective students composed these pride filled groups. The pride swelled at the National Cathedral where extra chairs were set up to accommodate the crowd. The choir performed with excellence and a reception on the cathedral grounds captured the spirit of the day and the spirit of Juniata College. The 100+ people renewed acquaintances, ate, laughed, and listened to the cassette of the choir taped an hour before in the cathedral.

What a wonderful experience — one that students will always remember and even some parents and alumni will never forget.

45

Boyd C. Jensen retired in June, 1987 after 42 years of service with Westvaco both in Tyrone, Pa. and Covington, Va. He and his wife, Lois '51, moved to North Roanoke County, Va. in September 1987. We wish you a happy retirement.

47

Ralph Harrity has been named acting principal of West Essex Senior High School in North Caldwell, N.J. where he resides.

49

Jesse F. Garber has been editor of The Record Herald in Waynesboro, Pa. since 1968. He was awarded a master of science degree in mass communications last August by Shippensburg University. He was also appointed as an adjunct faculty at Shippensburg starting this fall semester.

50

Reverend Paul C. Shaffer was recently named associate regional co-ordinator of United Christian Ashrams. He is a New Life Missioner, on the Board of Discipleship of the United Methodist Church. In addition, he serves as associate pastor of the Bethany United Methodist Church in Dover, Pa.

51

Paul E. Ritchey tells us he is a candidate for the U.S. House of Representatives for the 19th District of Pa. We wish he and his wife, Portia, who reside in York, Pa. Best wishes for a successful candidacy.

60

Carole (Miller) Calhoun writes that she is Senior Vice Principal of Largo High School near the Capital Center in Largo, Md.

64

Cora "Corky" (Cunningham) Sharp has recently been elected district coordinator of the California State Division of the American Association of University Women. She serves on the executive committee and council and acts as liaison with the members. Carol lives in sunny Del Mar, Cal.

Robert Shick states that he is still teaching math at Loysville Youth Development Center where he has been for 22 years. He and his wife also raise beef cattle — crossbreeding Angus with simmental — on their farm near Mifflintown, Pa.

Betty Jo (Miller) Taffe was recently elected to a three-year term on the Rumney, New Hampshire Board of Selectman. Her husband William "Bill" Taffe, is currently on sabbatical from Plymouth State College. He, too, is involved with the Board. They are living in Rumney, N.H.

Central Pa. Alumni Event

March 25, 1988

Central Pa. Club had a timely program which coordinated with the Icon Exhibit on Juniata's campus. Barry G. Carbaugh '73, president, was able to secure Congressman Goodling to speak on Soviet/American relations. Freshman Suzanne Lydic followed his talk with slides from Russia. This program was timely, informative and educational.

66

William J. Kauffman was named manager of a new research group within Armstrong World Industries Research and Development Department, Lancaster, Pa.

67

Terry Fabian assumed the duties of director for the office of Natural Resources within the Department of Environmental Resources in Pennsylvania. He and his family, Sandra (his wife), Shawn (11), Megan (8), and Derek (4), reside in Harrisburg.

Washington, D.C. Alumni Club January 23 & 24, 1988

The Washington D.C. alumni joined members of the alumni council for a most enjoyable day. Dr. Katherine Kenders-McCreary planned a brunch at the Watergate Hotel and attendance at one of the greatest theatre productions of H.M.S. Pinafore. The day was a wonderful way for Alumni Council members and alumni to develop meaningful relationships and to promote Juniata College.

69

Donna Lee Stapleton is currently enrolled in New York Theological Seminary in Ossining, New York.

Erika (Weaver) Schleifman and her husband Paul are quite busy folks with their new twins, Gregory and Julia. Besides that, Erika has recently joined Tucker Anthony, Investment Managers in Washington, D.C. Paul is an attorney practicing in Washington also. Their home is in Alexandria, Va.

Scott F. Williams of Cincinnati, Ohio has recently been promoted to Senior Account Underwriter, construction specialist for St. Paul Fire and Marine Insurance. He is in charge of marketing and underwriting accounts for the Cincinnati and Cleveland service centers in the Ohio, Kentucky, and West Virginia areas.

75

Pamela (McWilliams) Kennedy informed us that she is teaching French and English in the Juniata School District. She and her husband, J. Douglas, live with their two children Vance (4) and Jill (1) in Port Royal, Pa.

Mark P. Martin has been busy. He has earned three (3) masters degrees, one at Penn State (Human Development and Family Studies) and two (2) at Brigham Young University (Social Work and Marriage and Family Therapy). He and his wife Barbara, along with Robert (7), Matthew (5), David (3) and Laura (1), live in Poughkeepsie, New York. He currently is a social worker/marriage and family therapist for L.D.S. Social Services. He would welcome hearing from other class members and friends of Juniata.

Mark Jula of Coraopolis, Pa. had a very successful basketball season as is evidenced by his being named coach of the WPIAL Quad-A-All Stars in the Dapper Dan Roundball Classic, Congratulations, Mark.

Steven W. Oak informed us that he is a Plant Pathologist for the USDA Forest Service in Ashville, N.C. His wife Cindy, was N.C. Middle School Counselor of the Year in 1986. They reside in Arden, N.C. with their two children, Andrew and Adrienne.

Michael S. Vaughn is currently finishing up the third year as clinical director of a Drug and Alcohol Treatment Center. He was married in June and is residing in West Germany, where he is having the time of his life.

77

Thomas B. Hale is serving as assistant laboratory chief at Fort Drum, N.Y. Army Oil Analysis Laboratory. He was recently honored by several government agencies for saving a helicopter pilot's life by detecting abnormal wear metal in transmission of the aircraft. Our hats are off to you, Tom.

Waynesboro/Hagerstown Alumni Club April 21, 1988

Carol and John Van Horn '79-'79 planned a very special dinner and evening at the Waynesboro Country Club for the Waynesboro alumni. Dr. Kim M. Richardson, associate professor of education shared her experiences with Brethren Colleges Abroad in China. Kim presented her program with clarity and enthusiasm. The opportunity for alumni to meet and talk with faculty helped to confirm the significant contributions our faculty bring to the academic life of Juniata. The faculty/alumni exchange enhanced the joy of the evening and the communication goal of the alumni association.

78

George W. Rung, M.D. and Cathy K. Rung caught us up on a bit of information. George is an assistant professor of anesthesiology at Hershey Medical Center. Cathy is busy with three children, Katrina (7); Allison (5) and Jonathan (1). They live in Hummelstown, Pa.

Kish Alumni Event March 18, 1988

Jane Marhefka '48 planned a pleasant evening with a fine dinner and program. Thirty-five persons from the Kish area heard freshman Suzanne Lydic present her slides of Russia in an interesting and global way.

Robert Allen Stockett recently married Patricia Ann Paulley and honeymooned for two weeks in Switzerland and Liechtenstein. He tells us he has been a state policeman for seven years and Patricia is a Registered Nurse in the emergency room. They are residing in Media, Pa.

79

Cynthia B. Piccirilli of Chevy Chase, Maryland, graduated from the Uniformed Services University of the Health Sciences, F. Edward Hebert School of Medicine in Bethesda, Md. Dr. Piccirilli is a commissioned officer, senior assistant surgeon in the United States Public Health Service. She will be doing her internship in general surgery at Bethesda Naval Hospital.

80

Suzanne E. Brown is busy with a new daughter, Emily Suzanne. She is teaching science at Mt. Union Area High School in Mt. Union, where she resides.

Jeff Snider is a chemist at Eastman Pharmaceuticals, a division of Eastman Kodak. He and Diane '79, reside in Norristown, Pa.

T. E. Drzewiecki is still a Lieutenant in the Navy. He says he will be in Newport, Rhode Island until September. He is attending Department Head School there.

Michael P. Drauschak is working as a corporate marketing analyst for Comcast Cable Communications, Inc. He is also a member of the Pennsylvania Cable Television Association and the National Women in Cable organization. He is also completing graduate work for an MBA in marketing/management from St. Joseph's University in Philadelphia.

Franz Rudiger Klein (Ph.D.) is currently doing post-doctoral research at the Federal Research Centre for Virus Diseases of Animals in Tubingen, Federal Republic of Germany. Good luck, Franz.

82

Gus Creedon and his new bride, Melanie Anne Humphrey, are currently living in Washington, D.C., where Gus completed his masters of science in information systems technology at George Washington University. Melanie is a second year law student at George Washington University.

Beverly Supanick is working on her masters in bilingual education at night. During the day she substitute teaches and plays racquetball. She recently won the Earthquake Open in Salinas, Cal. She is residing in Bakersfield, Cal.

Jo Allison Henn has recently moved and taken on a new position with Prisoners Legal Services of New York in Poughkeepsie. She is residing in New Paltz, New York.

Mike Ford was busy in 1987. After a training period in Philadelphia, he served overseas with Youth Evangelism Service (YES) beginning in France and Belgium. He returned to the states in January. He is heading for Montana for the summer. He hopes to return to Europe in 1989!

Florida Alumni Club Annual Luncheon February 6, 1988

Alumni and friends, 122 to be exact, attended the 41st Annual Sebring Alumni gathering. The meal was served homestyle by the Auxiliary of the Sebring Church of the Brethren. Pastor of the Sebring Church gave the invocation. The program consisted of a dialogue between President Neff and Campus Minister Andy Murray on the Baker Institute for Peace and Conflict Studies, its nature, place in the Juniata curriculum, objectives and role in the future of Juniata students. This was followed by a concert of folk music by Andy & Terry Murray. A wonderful time was had by all, thanks to the planning of Beulah K. Baugher.

84

Dee-Ann Nokovich-Gehlauf is about to complete her doctoral work at Ohio University in Athens, Ohio. She was recently married and is residing in Athens.

Stanley C. Bowser of Cumberland, Md. recently received the E. F. Wildermuth Academic Scholarship at the Pennsylvania College of Optometry in Philadelphia. Stan will be graduating this May.

Joseph W. Whitacre, Jr. is currently working on his masters degree at Johns Hopkins University. Yvonne '84, his wife, is continuing to work for Body and Soul Ministries, a Christian aerobics company.

85

Jill M. Hagenberger-Close informed us that she is special project manager/operations coordinator at Accu-Weather, Inc. in State College. She was also recently married to Jay Close and they reside in State College.

Blair-Bedford Alumni Event April 14, 1988

Bruce Erb '76, president of Blair/Bedford Alumni Club, planned an enjoyable and a relaxing dinner evening at the Calvin House in Duncansville. An enlightening slide presentation was presented by freshman Suzanne Lydic — the alumni were impressed by Suzanne's maturity and speaking ability. She helped the group to know how cultures are more alike than different.

Cynthia (Palmer) Grove and Timothy Wade Grove dropped us a line to tell us of some current events in their lives. Cindy is busy with their new baby, Garth Stewart, and has completed her master's from University of Maryland in natural resource management. She is working for the Maryland Department of Natural Resources developing an urban recreational fishing program.

Amy (Smith) Thomas is currently a second grade teacher at Hershey Elementary School in Hershey. Her new husband is a tax analyst for Hershey Foods Corporation. They are soon to be residing in Palmyra, Pa. where they recently purchased a townhouse.

Erin S. Keller completed her masters degree in art history at the University of Massachusetts.

Laura Keat is currently a child life specialist at Johns Hopkins Hospital and Kernan Hospital in Baltimore, where she lives.

Anthony W. Gentile of Frazer, Pa. completed his masters degree at Temple University last May. He is currently working as an environmental geologist for Pennoni Associates, Inc. who are consulting engineers in Philadelphia, Pa.

Edward G. Gens of State College completed his masters degree in petroleum engineering at Penn State. He has accepted a position with Kerr-McGee Corporation in Lafayette, Louisiana. Good luck, Ed — don't forget us in the North.

Joseph D'Onofrio, who was recently married has joined CPG Publishing in Hoboken, New Jersey as an associate publisher. He and his new bride, Mary, reside in Lodi, New Jersey.

Jeffrey M. Cohen will soon graduate from Seton Hall University School of Law. After graduation, he will assume a position with the law firm Andora, Palmisano, Harris and Romano in Elwood, New Jersey where he will be doing commercial and banking law and litigation. Congratulations, Jeff.

86

Tonya J. (Snyder) Kunzier was married last October to John M. Kunzier. She is an assistant manager of Garrison Jewelers in York, Pa. and is taking courses from Gemological Institute of America.

Mary (Moynihan) Underwood is employed by the Department of Children and Youth Services and is presently working at a psychiatric hospital for adolescents. She and her new husband, Thomas, reside in Meriden, Conn.

Maggie Gregory is working as a department manager of juniors in the Neshaminy Branch of Strawbridge and Clothier in Philadelphia where she resides.

Kelly A. Bauer has recently accepted a pharmaceutical sales position with Princeton Pharmaceutical Products, a new division of E. R. Squibb and Sons, Inc. She now resides in Huntington, W.V.

87

Paul R. Young is attending Old Dominion University in Norfolk, Va. where he is working on his masters degree in geology. He is also teaching several historical geology labs this semester and having a great time doing so.

Dona Whitmore-McDonough is working with Brethren Volunteer Services.

"Evening with the Icons"

April 15, 1988

An inspirational/educational "evening with the Icons" was coordinated by Karen and Robert Orr '76-'76 for Huntingdon area friends and alumni. George T. Dolnikowski '52, associate professor of Russian and German, talked about growing up with Icons. Dr. Jose C. Nieto, professor of religion and history and Robert E. Wagoner, professor of philosophy expanded on the importance of these paintings to Christianity and shared information on the specific icons exhibited in Shoemaker Galleries. The dinner and rare evening were greatly appreciated by 49 persons.

Class Notes

Juniata is always looking for news of its alumni: promotions, degrees, job changes, honors, marriages, births, etc., even an address change. If you fit the bill — or would like to report on a friend — please complete this form and return it to the office of Alumni Relations. We encourage you to send photos (black and white) with your news.

Name	Class	Spouse's Name	Class
Address	City	State	Zip

Item (attach additional sheet if necessary):

---

---

---

---

---

---

Birth Announcements

Gregory and Julia, born to Erika (Weaver) '73 and Paul S. Schleifman of Arlington, Va., on January 22, 1988. This is their second and third child, the first being Andrea.

Charles Robert, born to Katherine (Appleby) '75 and Dr. Robert K. Dellinger '75 of Reading, Pa., on December 14, 1986.

Amanda Lynn, born on March 26, 1986 to Dolly (Tompkins) '76 and James W. Herb, Jr. '75 of Honey Brook, Pa.

Lara Beth, born to Dana G. and Michael L. Busser '78, of Huntingdon, Pa., on February 1, 1988. This is their second child, the first being Zachary Michael born on May 3, 1986.

Nicholas Peter, born to Stephanie (Laskaris) '78 and Peter T. James '78 of Hollidaysburg, Pa., on November 13, 1987.

James Harold, born on September 28, 1987 to Cynthia (Brumbaugh) '79 and Harold S. Burton of Rehrersburg, Pa.

Alison Dianne, born to Diana (Hinich) '78 and Timothy Kearney '79 of Spartanburg, S.C. on December 28, 1987.

Emily Suzanne, born to Suzanne E. (Cassatt) '80 and Dan Brown of Mount Union, Pa., on October 7, 1987.

Samantha Anne, born on December 19, 1987 to Carolyn (Burleigh) '80 and James P. Morford of Greensburg, Pa.

Matthew Ian DeArmitt, born to Susan (Berger) '82 and Capt. Don A. DeArmitt '82 of Fort Bragg, N.C., on September 30, 1987.

Caitlin Danielle, born to Carol (Lykens) '83 and William D. Murphy of Bristol, Pa., on February 21, 1987. The Murphys are expecting another child in October of this year.

Garth Stewart, born on January 6, 1988 to Cynthia (Palmer) '85 and Timothy Wade Grove '85 of Laurel, Md. He weighed 7 pounds and 14 ounces.

Natasha Colette, born on March 21, 1988 to Maria (Dolson) '86 and Pierre V. Verroye '83 of Annandale, Va.

Marriages

Marjorie Pusey '62 and Howard H. Hall, Jr. married on May 10, 1987. They are now residing in Trumansburg, N.Y.

Patricia Ann Paulley and Robert Allan Stockett '78 on January 16, 1988. Their home address is Media, Pa.

Melanie Anne Humphrey and Gus Creedon '82 on August 15, 1987 and they are residing in Washington, D.C.

Heidi A. Ross '83 and H. Jeffrey Brown on January 23, 1988. They are residing in Lancaster.

DeeAnn Nokovich-Gehlauf '84 and David Gehlauf were married on October 17, 1987 and reside in Athens, Ohio.

Jill M. Hagenberger-Close '85 and Jay T. Close on February 20, 1987 are living at State College.

Cynthia Palmer '85 and Timothy Wade Grove '85 on December 28, 1985. They live in Laurel, Md.

Mary Hague and Joseph D'Onofrio '85 on September 19, 1987 where they reside in Lodi, N.J.

Kathy Readinger '87 and Bob Neumar '85 on March 12, 1988. They reside in Wilkinsburg, Pa.

Beth M. Yaskovitch '85 and John P. Shields '85 were married on November 7, 1987. Residing in North Wales, Pa.

Amy Smith '85 and Russ Thomas on October 24, 1987. They are residing in Palmyra, Pa.

Karen L. Brown '85 and James C. Thorn and now reside in Wheaton, Ill.

Tonya J. Snyder '86 and John M. Kunzier on October 31, 1987 and are living in Marietta, Pa.

Faculty Member is Remembered

Dr. Cornelius J. Frijters, professor of French and linguistics, died in Amersfort, Holland on January 21, 1988. Dr. Frijters taught at Juniata from 1970. He was on a leave of absence at the time of his death.

Dr. Frijters was born July 15, 1920 in Laren, Holland, the son of Johannes and Catharina Vermunt Frijters. He had extensive teaching experience in Holland and France prior to coming to the United States in 1961 to accept a teaching post at Queensboro

Community College in Bayside, NY. In 1962 Dr. Frijters accepted a position teaching French and German at Wilkes College in Wilkes-Barre and in 1965 began a three-year tenure teaching French, German, French literature, and literary criticism at Western Maryland College in Westminster, Md.

Dr. Frijters received his Ph.D. in linguistics from the University of Nijmegen, Holland, in 1957 and did post graduate studies at the Sorbonne in Paris, Columbia University, the University of Leiden in Holland, Johns Hopkins University and the Pennsylvania State University. He was a certified translator.

At Juniata Dr. Frijters was a foreign student adviser and a member of the committee on foreign studies. As a member of the American Association of Teachers of French, he was actively involved in the coordination of the teaching of foreign languages in high schools and colleges.

As a constant seeker of higher truths Dr. Frijters explored many religions with the same intensity and dedication with which he taught. At the close of his life he was a follower of the Baha'i faith. In earlier years he was a member of the Stone Church of the Brethren where he served as board member. In Holland, France and Germany he ministered in the Roman Catholic church as a priest and teacher. Dr. Frijters served the Huntingdon community as a past president of the Huntingdon Forum of Churches.

Case Frijters is survived by one daughter, Gabrielle Aimee Frijters, three stepsons, Ernest Nathan Lashlee, Johannes Conrad Lashlee, and Ethan Christian B. Lashlee, and their mother Bonnie Brumbaugh Lashlee Frijters. Dr. Frijters is also survived by three brothers and four sisters in Holland.

Dr. Cornelius J. Fritjers

In Memoriam

Class Year

1926	Mariam Anderson Steel
1928	Clarence E. Frye
1928	Merrill Gifford Henry
1931	Emily L. Oppel
1933	Joseph L. Gracey
1933	Helen T. Harvard
1936	Jessie B. (Heck) Miller
1938	Genevieve F. DeLauter
1938	Lois Young
1946	Rev. Donald L. Forbes
1948	James C. Stewart, Jr.
1949	Major Dean V. Sheaffer
1950	John T. Martin, Jr.
1955	William N. Braunwarth

Fall Sports Schedules 1988

FOOTBALL

SEPTEMBER

10	Washington and Jefferson.....	1:30
17	at Delaware Valley*.....	1:30
24	at Lebanon Valley*.....	1:30

OCTOBER

1	Widener* (Parent's Weekend) .	1:30
8	at Moravian*.....	1:30
15	at Lycoming*.....	1:30
22	Albright* (Homecoming).....	1:30
29	Susquehanna*.....	1:30

NOVEMBER

5	at Wilkes*.....	1:30
12	Upsala.....	1:30

*Middle Atlantic Conference game

Junior Varsity Football

SEPTEMBER

19	Gettysburg.....	3:00
26	Susquehanna.....	3:00

OCTOBER

10	at Lycoming.....	3:00
17	at Bucknell.....	7:00
31	at Dickinson.....	3:00

Field Hockey

SEPTEMBER

7	at Lycoming College.....	3:30
10	at Western Maryland.....	+1:00
13	Wilkes College.....	+4:00
14	at Chatham College.....	4:30
17	York College.....	+1:00
21	Messiah College.....	+3:00
25	at Johns Hopkins.....	2:00
27	Franklin and Marshall.....	+3:00

OCTOBER

1	Carnegie Mellon.....	1:00
5	Dickinson College.....	+3:00
7	at Houghton College.....	4:00
11	at Susquehanna Univ.....	+3:00
13	Gettysburg College.....	+3:00
22	Washington and Jefferson.....	2:00

+ includes JV game

VOLLEYBALL

SEPTEMBER

9-10	at U.S. Naval Academy Tourn.....	4:00
14	Shippensburg at Spring Grove H.S.....	6:30
16-17	at Illinois Benedictine Tourn.....	6:00
21	at Albright College.....	7:00
27	Gettysburg College.....	6:30
30-1	Indian Invitational.....	4:00

OCTOBER

7-8	Coca-Cola Classic.....	4:00
11	Messiah College.....	6:30
13	at Susquehanna Univ.....	7:00
14-15	at Eastern Connecticut Tourn.....	6:00
19	Elizabethtown College.....	6:30
21	Indiana Univ. of PA.....	6:00
22	Gannon University.....	4:00
25	at Dickinson College.....	6:30
27	at Lebanon Valley.....	7:00
29	at Allegheny with Grove City and Robert Morris.....	10:00

NOVEMBER

4-5	MAC's at Messiah
-----	------------------

SOCCER

SEPTEMBER

3	at Susquehanna Univ.....	1:00
7	at Franklin and Marshall.....	3:30
10	at Lycoming College.....	1:00
14	Pitt-Johnstown.....	3:00
17	Elizabethtown.....	2:00
21	at Messiah College.....	3:30
24	York College.....	2:00
28	at Dickinson College.....	3:00

OCTOBER

1	King's College.....	2:00
5	Wilkes College.....	3:00
8	St. Francis College.....	2:00
15	at Gettysburg College.....	11:30
19	Lebanon Valley College.....	3:00
22	Albright College.....	2:00
26	Shippensburg Univ.....	3:00
29	St. Francis College.....	11:00

Women's Cross Country

SEPTEMBER

10	at Lebanon Valley Invitational .	1:00
17	Messiah College.....	1:00
24	Elizabethtown/Albright.....	1:00

OCTOBER

1	Lock Haven University.....	2:30
8	at Dickinson Invitational.....	1:00
15	at Gettysburg with Susquehanna.....	11:30
29	at Lycoming with Messiah.....	1:00

NOVEMBER

5	MAC's
---	-------

Men's Cross Country

SEPTEMBER

10	at Lebanon Valley Invitational .	1:00
17	Messiah College.....	1:00
24	Elizabethtown/Albright.....	1:00

OCTOBER

1	Lock Haven University.....	2:30
8	at Dickinson Invitational.....	1:00
15	at Gettysburg with Susquehanna.....	11:30
29	at Lycoming with Messiah.....	1:00

NOVEMBER

5	MAC's
---	-------

NCAAAction!

Office of College Advancement
Juniata College
Huntingdon, PA 16652

Calendar of Events:

July 29	Golf Outing	Pittsburgh, PA
August 13	Blair-Bedford Picnic	New Enterprise, PA
Sept. 1 through Oct. 7	Icon Exhibit	Easton, PA
Sept. 9 through Sept. 22	Alumni Tour — Nova Scotia with Cabot Trail
Sept. 17	Football Pre-game Luncheon	Delaware Valley Doylestown, PA
Sept. 24	Football Pre-game Luncheon	Lebanon Valley Annville, PA
Sept. 30 through Oct. 2	Parents Weekend	Juniata College
October 1	CCRC Meeting	Juniata College
October 8	Football Pre-game Luncheon	Moravian College Bethlehem, PA
Oct. 13 through Oct. 15	Trustee Weekend	Juniata College
October 22	Homecoming Alumni Council Meeting	Juniata College
Nov. 3 through Dec. 11	Icon Exhibit	Worcester, MA
Nov. 5	Football Pre-game Luncheon	Wilkes College Wilkes-Barre, PA
Nov. 6 through Nov. 10	Alumni Tour — Annual Bermuda Getaway
Nov. 7 through Nov. 13	Alumni Tour — Musical Tour Vienna & Prague

BULK RATE
U.S. POSTAGE
PAID
Permit No. 39
Huntingdon, Pa.
16652

Address Correction Requested